Terrorists Bomb Embassy And Burn Two Automobiles

BY HAL MC CLURE
NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP)—An emergency airlift began removing hundreds of American women and children from this Mediterranean trouble spot today as anti-American violence continued on Cyprus.

Terrorists bombed the American Embassy in Nicosia Tuesday night, slightly injuring a Marine guard, then set ablaze two cars owned by U.S. government employees.

U.S. Ambassador Fraser Wilkins ordered a "voluntary" evacuation of American dependents to Beirut, Lebanon, explaining he no longer had confidence in the ability of Greek Cypriot police to keep order.

Archbishop Makarios, the Greek Cypriot president, in a statement denounced the bombing as day as anti-American violence continued on Cyprus.

The terrorism appeared designed to demonstrate Greek Cypriot opposition to an American-British plan to assign a North Atlantic Treaty Organization peace force to enforce the truce between the island's warring Greek and Turkish communities.

Makarios, in effect, rejected such a force Tuesday by demanding that it be answerable to the U.N. Security Council. The United States and Britain say such a condition is unacceptable because it would give the Soviet Union a chance to interfere.

Senate Rejects Tax Measure Rate Revision

Turns Down Proposal For More Help to Low Income Families

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate rejected today 71-23 an amendment by Sen. Paul H. Douglas, D-Ill., designed to revise the $11.6 billion tax cut bill to give a better break to low income families.

He proposed to increase the new minimum standard deduction feature in the bill to give an additional $960 million of tax relief to such families.

All but $90 million of this revenue loss would have been recouped by cutting back on the corporate rate reductions in the bill so that the new maximum rate would be 50 per cent instead of 48 per cent as the measure now provides. The present ceiling is 52 per cent.

Douglas' Proposal
The minimum standard deduction provision in the bill allows each taxpayer a $300 deduction plus $100 for each of his dependents.

It could be used as an alternative to the present standard deduction of 10 per cent up to a maximum of $1,000.

A four-person family with income of $5,000 or less would gain from the new provision.

Douglas proposed to raise the new deduction to $400 for the taxpayer plus $200 for each additional exemption up through the sixth.

The Illinois senator said the big defect in the bill was that it did not do enough to boost the purchasing power of families toward the bottom of the income scale.

Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., floor manager for the bill, opposing the amendment, insisted that the measure now was well balanced as between all interests and should not be changed.

A stiff battle was in prospect over a Republican proposal to repeal the 10 per cent excise tax on jewelry, watches, luggage, cosmetics and furs.

The vote was expected to be just as close as Tuesday when the administration forces beat back—by only three votes each time—major drives to retain the credit on stock dividends.

Woman and Girl Die in Accidents

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The deaths of a Wausau woman and a Racine County girl in separate accidents have boosted Wisconsin's 1964 highway toll to 93, compared with 50 on this date one year ago.

Mrs. Florence Wolfram, 45, of Wausau, died early today of injuries suffered late Tuesday night in a two-car crash on Madison's far east side. She was the purchasing power of family riding in a car driven by Milton Blumenberg, 54, of Oak Park, Ill. Blumenberg's injuries were not serious.

Connie Foreman, eight-year-old daughter of Mrs. Peter McCormick of Kansasville, was killed Tuesday night when struck by a car on Highway 75 in Kansasville.

A staff battle was in prospect over a Republican proposal to repeal the 10 per cent excise tax on jewelry, watches, luggage, cosmetics and furs.

Beckwith Trial May Be Ended Tomorrow

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—The defense called news witnesses today in a drive to rip up the state's case against Byron De La Beckwith, charged with murder.

Hardy Lott of Greenwood, chief defense lawyer, said he hoped to wind up the 10-day-old trial by Thursday.

The prosecution rested its case Tuesday. In nearly four days of testimony, Dist. Atty. William L. Waller called 35 witnesses in an effort to prove Beckwith, 43, ambushed Medgar Evers.

Johnson Asks Congress for Laws to Protect Consumers

9 Proposals Include Fair Packaging, Complete Data On Hidden Interest Charges

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson asked Congress today for new laws to protect consumers against phony packaging and disguised interest charges. And he suggested possible use of federal experts to help low-income families prepare household budgets.

Johnson, in a special message on consumer interests, endorsed nine specific pieces of legislation including pending bills to ban deceptive packaging and to require full disclosure of interest rates on installment purchases.

"For far too long," Johnson said, "the consumer has had too little voice and too little weight in government." The President said that while labor, business, farmers and professional groups have been well represented, the consumer "has had to take a back seat."

The most novel idea in the message—the use of trained government workers to help low-income families learn more about budgeting and how to "get the most for their money"—was not put forward in the form of legislation.

Hopes to Extend Service
Instead, Johnson said he was asking all federal agencies interested in consumer education to explore fully the possibility of adapting the Agricultural Extension Service concept, "so today for new laws to protect consumers against phony packaging and disguised interest charges. And he suggested possible use of federal experts to help low-income families prepare household budgets."

Johnson also said the government would try to promote consumer education in the schools and encourage more young people "to seek instruction in the fundamentals of budgeting, buying and borrowing."

He said his committee on consumer interests soon will begin a series of regional conferences to explore "the problems of adequate consumer information."

Adequate Information
Johnson devoted most attention to truth-in-packaging proposals.

"I recommend legislation to insure that the consumer has access to the information necessary to make a rational choice among competing package products," he said.

As for truth-in-lending, he called for a new law that would require lenders to disclose in advance the total amount of interest to be paid and the annual rate of interest.

Other legislative recommendations were:
A requirement that cosmetics

U.S. Protests Incident at Accra Embassy

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States has protested to the government of Ghana concerning anti-American demonstrations in front of the U.S. Embassy in Accra.

The U.S. protest was issued Tuesday night by G. Mennen Williams, assistant secretary of state for African affairs, to Ambassador Miguel A. Ribeiro of Ghana.

One unofficial report said demonstrators tore down the U.S. flag outside the embassy but that the assistant attaché, in what unofficially was termed an act of courage and bravery, ran it back up.

The attaché was identified as Adger E. Player, 31, a Negro from Denver, Colo., who is serving in his first State Department post. He was named to it July 13, 1962.

The demonstrators marched around the embassy and carried placards that read "down with Yankee imperialism" and "Ghana yes, Yankee no."

U.S. Ambassador William P. Mahoney Jr. made a strong in representation to Foreign Minister Kojo Boissio of Ghana.

Towns Isolated by Snow in Southwest

Drifts as High as 10 Feet In Some Parts of 5 States

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Scores of towns and cities were isolated and traffic was paralyzed as a near blizzard swept ponderously through portions of five southwestern states Tuesday.

Snowfalls of 6-25 inches were whipped into drifts of up to 10 feet in eastern New Mexico, southeastern Colorado, south-western Kansas and the Texas and Oklahoma panhandles.

Thousands of cars and trucks and some buses dotted the sides of the highways and streets, abandoned by occupants now snowbound in motels and hotels waiting out the storm.

Schools, offices and stores remained closed in many cities and towns, except for emergency use.

Texas Gov. John Connally put Amarillo on an emergency basis and mobilized the National Guard for duty. The snowfall ranged between 10-15 inches in the area.

The heaviest snow was 25 inches in Borger, Tex.

Wilkinson Seeks GOP Senate Seat From Oklahoma

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—Former Oklahoma Football Coach Bud Wilkinson today made his long-expected announcement that he is a Republican candidate for the U.S. Senate.

Wilkinson, the nation's winningest football coach, made the announcement at a news conference, making it clear that he would pitch his campaign on a conservative note and saying he is confident he can win.

Wilkinson joins another glamour candidate, Astronaut John Glenn, in plunging into a political career this year. Glenn is seeking the Democratic Senatorial nomination in Ohio.

"I'm in this thing to win and I think I can win," Wilkinson said. "I intend to win this race and keep on winning."

"I am not a professional politician," Wilkinson said. "However, political office is not the private preserve or special responsibility of those who confine their lives to politics. Government in our free land does not belong to politicians. It belongs to the people."

Witness Says Hoffa Told of Bribe Plan

Wanted to 'Get to Few' Jurors in Conspiracy Trial

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP) Frank Wilson this morning persuaded Teamsters official testified that James R. Hoffa told him of plans to "try to get to a few scattered jurors" in the Tuesday had sought to block Teamsters president's conspiracy trial.

Edward Grady Partin, Baton Rouge, La., Teamsters officer, testified over heated defense objections at the jury tampering trial of Hoffa and five other men. His was the first testimony linking Hoffa with any alleged jury-fixing efforts so far in the trial, now in its third week.

Conferring in Room 301 of the Nashville Hotel, Hoffa said Partin, business manager of Baton Rouge Local No. 5, told him he'd like for me to stick around a few days. He might want me to talk to a few people.

"He said they were going to get to one juror and try to get to a few scattered jurors and take a chance."

Hoffa and the others are accused of trying to influence jurors in the 1962 Nashville trial.

The government won a major victory when U.S. Dist. Judge

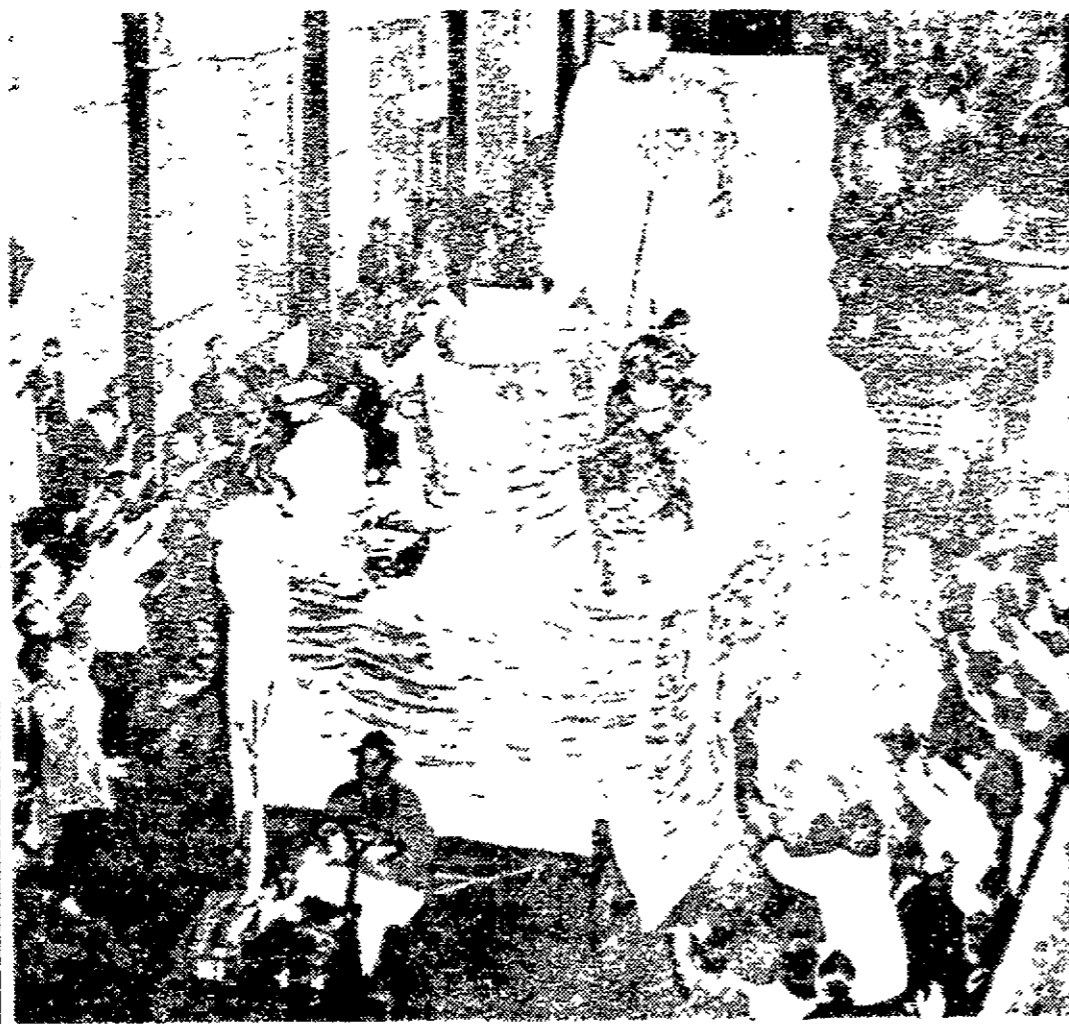

Asked About Partin
He said he once inquired about Partin—who said he was in constant contact with defense lawyers and Justice Department officials during the 1962 trial. But, Maher said, he was assured by Hoffa and one of his lawyers, "He's one of us; he's all right."

When Partin—under indictment in Baton Rouge for stealing union funds—was taken to stand Tuesday, the defense objected bitterly, asserting use of his testimony would be a violation of privacy.

Third Day of Testimony

Mrs. Oswald Asked to Identify Gun, Other Items in Assassination Quiz

BY STERLING F. GREEN
WASHINGTON (AP)—Some time today Mrs. Marina Oswald was to be confronted with the rifle found in a Dallas sniper's nest Nov. 22 and asked if it was her husband's.

With the Italian-made carbine before her, the 22-year-old widow of Lee Harvey Oswald was expected to say yes, as she already has done under police questioning.

Bought Last March
The rifle, bought by mail in March by the ex-Marine sharpshooter and equipped with telescopic sights, will then enter the file of exhibits of the presidential commission investigating the assassination of President John F. Kennedy.

Chief Justice Earl Warren, presiding over the third consecutive day's interrogation of the Russian-born wife of the man charged with killing Kennedy, said the rifle is among "a great number of items of the building from which the assassin fired. The rifle was missing from its hiding place at their Dallas home when she led police to the spot, after Oswald's capture."

Officials have disclosed that Oswald's palm print has been found on the bolt-action carbine, and that shreds of brown shirt he wore that day were caught in its mechanism. Warren Tuesday amplified his remark of Monday that some of the testimony taken in the commission's closed hearings "may not be released in your lifetime."

Architect Hired To Develop Hospital Plans

Expansion of Appleton Memorial To Begin in Summer

E. Todd Wheeler and Perkins & Will, Chicago architects, were retained Tuesday to develop final plans for an addition to Appleton Memorial Hospital.

The addition will be the first phase of the hospital's long range improvement and expansion program. An estimated cost of the addition is not yet available.

It is expected construction will begin this summer on an extension of the second floor over the one-story areas on the northeast and southeast sections of the present building. This expansion, envisioned in the original building plans, will provide room for expansion of the laboratory and other auxiliary facilities to meet present and future needs.

Signs Contract

The Chicago architectural firm Tuesday signed a contract with the hospital board's executive committee to prepare plans and specifications. The same firm has been working since last September with the board's long range planning committee on a master plan for the hospital's future development.

No public fund drive will be made to finance this first phase of the expansion. It is anticipated that necessary funds can be borrowed from private sources.

The long range planning committee has been working on the master development plan for a year and a half. Last week Mrs. William E. Buchanan, Sr., committee chairman, presented progress reports to the board of directors and a coordinating committee of doctors on the medical staff. Both groups approved the work done by the committee.

Mrs. Buchanan said that while the master plan has not yet been completed, it is far enough along to warrant recommending this first step, with the assurance that it not only will fill immediate hospital needs, but will be completely compatible with future steps in the program.

Picketing of Schools in Second Day

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Civil rights picketing went through its second day at three public schools Tuesday and the only incident recorded was a pushing scene involving police and two assemblymen.

The demonstrations calling for an end to "de facto" segregation began Monday and are slated to continue through today. "De facto" segregation is the result of residency patterns and not policy.

Observers said that Assemblymen Raymond Lathan and Isaac Coggins joined a line of Negro children being transported from the 12th Street School to the Sherman School. A policeman stood in the way to block their boarding the bus. When the officer was questioned by Lathan, several other policemen joined in blocking the door.

One of the officers was pushed into the bus, and witnesses said the two assemblymen were moved back by the officers while the driver closed the bus door and drove off.

One policeman asked the pair, "Do you want to be arrested?" Ernest Green, a leader of the pickets, told the officers that Lathan and Coggins were not members of the Congress of Racial Equality (CORE), which has joined other civil rights groups in the demonstration.

How can I keep them out of the picket line? Green reportedly asked. "All I want is to keep them from being violent. If I were not own members I would ask them to leave."

Potential Bridge Falls Plot Addition Request

MENASHA — A subject which normally would have been almost purely routine a large issue Tuesday night because of the possibility of a bridge being constructed across Little Lake Lake Park near Mies.

Council, in considering a request for the second addition to Paces Bay Park, heard one lot is in the path of proposed improvements to the bridge. After a lengthy discussion council rejected the addition and agreed to discuss with Ames Pace the resubmission of plan plans so that an agreement can be worked out on the lot.

Rejection came on recommendation of Mayor John Klein who pointed out no one knows yet exactly where the bridge will be.

A motion to approve the addition with the exception of the land parcel, lot 8 of block two, fell through. An earlier motion to reject the request failed for lack of a second. The motion was later renewed and approved.

Mitchell Wants Area Support In Water Quest

Appleton May Again Seek Support for Michigan Pipeline

Mayor Clarence Mitchell said Tuesday at a board of Public Works meeting he considers Appleton's search for a new water supply to be a regional project.

The board approved a study to be made by a Chicago firm at a cost of $15,000 to $25,000.

The study would include recommendations, proposed rate increases and other statistical data involving both Lake Michigan and Lake Winnebago.

Explaining the study, Public Works Director Robert W. Bues said it would include three alternatives:

— Appleton going to Lake Winnebago alone on a short-term basis.

— Appleton, along with other Fox Cities communities, eventually pooling financial resources to go to Lake Michigan.

— Appleton "going it alone" to Lake Michigan.

Regional Project

"I think this water expansion is going to be a regional project and we will need the facts and figures to swing the tide if we want to swing it," Mitchell commented. He was referring to selling other communities on going in with Appleton on a water program.

Previous attempts by the Appleton Water Commission and city officials to interest surrounding communities in a lake pipeline project have been unsuccessful. It appears Appleton will make another try.

Bues said he felt Kimberly, Combined Locks and Kaukauna would in time require a new water supply and that Appleton was the logical supplier. He indicated other communities to the north might also want to join in a Lake Michigan-tapping in future years.

Bues has advocated the possibility of Appleton laying a pipeline to Lake Winnebago to obtain water for an interim period, and then switch to Lake Michigan when the other communities are ready to go. He said some of the same facilities for Winnebago could be used in getting water from Lake Michigan.

The initial cost of a water expansion project would be considerably less if the city went to Lake Winnebago, Bues says. The board will meet soon with representatives of Consoer, Townsend & Associates to negotiate a firm price for the study.

Reporting on municipal sewer construction, Bues said the city's program of separating storm and sanitary sewer lines — in the past a major cause of flooding — will be completed this year.

Your Money's Worth

Vocational Education Key to War on Poverty

BY SYLVIA PORTER

"One thousand dollars invested in salvaging an unemployable youth today can return $40,000 or more in his lifetime" — President Johnson, State of the Union Message, Jan. 8, 1964.

"Poverty and ignorance go hand in hand. Of families headed by a person with only a grade school education, 37 per cent are poor," — LBJ, Economic Report, Jan. 20, 1964.

"Expenditures for vocational education programs are estimated to increase by $54 million in 1965 to carry out the provisions of Public Law 88-210, approved Dec. 18, 1963" — The President, Budget Message, Jan. 21, 1964.

At the heart of Johnson's "war on poverty" is to be our greatest drive ever to help both young adults and older workers acquire the skills this era's labor markets will demand. And at the heart of this drive is to be a law just put on our nation's books to improve, expand, modernize and upgrade the status of vocational education in the U.S. to an unprecedented degree.

Education Law

The new vocational education law will revolutionize our system of vocational and technical training. It will help train both the slow learner and the technically talented, will reach both the academically handicapped and the economically deprived. It will provide funds for future pioneering efforts to establish "vocational boarding schools" along the lines of the familiar college campus and for experimental work-study programs which will allow youngsters to hold part-time jobs while they are being trained.

Its sweeping mandate will affect the more than 4 million youths and adults now enrolled in our vocational schools and the many millions more who will be added to the rolls in coming years. It will, says Dr. Roy Dugger, Director of Manpower Development in the U.S. Office of Education, "contribute a large body of desperately needed technical personnel to industry."

Eventually, it may signal the end of our great pool of unskilled, unemployable workers in whom industry has little interest today.

Big-time promises indeed! Yet, astonishingly little has been written about this law, few even know it has been passed. Here's the background.

Vocational System

In recent years, our vocational education system — established under the Smith-Hughes Act of 1917 — has become progressively out of step with reality.

With a few admirable exceptions, the school's are obsolete in structure, training and equipment and inadequately staffed. Aware of this, President Kennedy appointed a study panel early in his Administration to report on the system. Among the panel's findings were:

Up to 80 per cent of our high school students will not go on to finish college, will drop out somewhere along the line and enter today's competitive job market with insufficient training. Yet, only 20 per cent of high school students today attend vocational schools and the schools get only a fraction of funds spent for education.

Appalling differences in the availability and levels of vocational training exist from state to state and community to community — despite the growing need everywhere for this type of training.

Geared to Past

Much of what is being taught is geared to the past. A shockingly disproportionate amount of federal-state funds is being channeled into agriculture and home economics training. The panel found only six states receiving federal funds offered vocational courses in appliance repair or the heating and ventilation trades; only four states provided training for dental technicians; youth today can return $40,000 or only three for hospital aids; only two for laboratory technicians and nurses' aids; only one for business machine repair.

On the basis of the Kennedy panel's recommendations, the vocational education legislation of 1963 was written. Now President Johnson has asked for funds to translate its objectives into reality as quickly as possible.

Father-Son Communion Set at St. Joseph Church

Men of St. Joseph Holy Name Society will receive holy communion in a body with their sons at the 8 a.m. mass Sunday. The sons will be guests at a breakfast meeting following.

In observance of Boy Scout Week, a 20-minute film entitled "Investment in Tomorrow" will be shown at the meeting. It is a true story about two boys whose lives were shaped through Boy Scouting.

The Holy Name Society is sponsor of the Boy Scout program at St. Joseph. Gary Kausch, parish chairman of the Law prisoners paid about $14,300 known for his congressional scout committee, will be in for their meals which was turned over to the county.

Meal-Fee Setup To Pay Sheriff Will Continue

Winnebago Group Indicates Approval Of Present System

OSHKOSH — Winnebago County apparently will continue its present system for paying the sheriff with salary and fees. The sheriff and coroner committee Tuesday discussed the meal-fee setup with Sheriff Richard Lowell and indicated it was satisfied with this system.

The county board at its January meeting instructed the committee to study the meal-fee setup and report back by May 15, prior to the filing deadline for sheriff candidates, so candidates would know the status of the office.

The study request was made after the Waukesha and Brown County sheriffs disclosed profits from serving prisoner meals.

Meal Fees

The sheriff receives 60 cents per meal served confined prisoners and 80 cents per meal for Huber Law prisoners. The county is reimbursed by the Huber of the rally.

Last year the sheriff was paid surgeon, Judd was a medical missionary in the Far East for 10 years. He is probably best known for his congressional work from 1942 until his retirement in 1960.

Former Minnesota Congressman Will Address GOP

OSHKOSH — Starting with a torchlight parade through the downtown area at 6:30 p.m. on Friday, Feb. 14, the Republican political rally will build up to a keynote address by former Cong. Walter H. Judd at the Oshkosh Civic Auditorium, Guilford Willey, Winnebago.

Dr. Judd, County Republican party chairman, reported today.

Judd's topic will be "What Kind of Government Do We Want?" He is a former member of congress from Minnesota and is reputed to be a dynamic speaker who is nationally and internationally prominent for his views on United States foreign policy.

Tickets for the program are available in Neenah-Menasha at the Morton Drug Stores and in Appleton at the Belling Pharmacy.

Judd will arrive in Oshkosh at 9:27 a.m. on Feb. 14, the day of the rally.

Sir Walter Raleigh Really Started Something With Tobacco Find

BY CHARLES HOUSE
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

When you think of smoking you must think also of Sir Walter Raleigh, who was one of the first white men to take up the habit and bring it to national attention.

If he got any particular benefits out of smoking it isn't said. But he did win two gold crowns from Queen Elizabeth who, apparently, was naive.

One day Raleigh was puffing on his pipe when he told the queen that he could "weigh the smoke." When she doubted it, they placed the bet Raleigh set out to prove his claim.

He weighed enough tobacco for a pipe-load, stuffed it into the bowl and smoked it. When he finished, he dumped the ashes remaining onto the scale and weighed them.

"You see," he told the queen, "these ashes are lighter in weight than the tobacco was. The only way the difference can be accounted for is in the smoke that is now gone!"

The queen reluctantly paid from Spain. Portugal sent it to the two gold crowns to Raleigh, Italy. Egypt got it from the and then she added, "The alchemists and China got it from mists have tried to make gold the Philippines. America, of out of many things, but you, sir, course, got it from the Indians have made gold out of smoke!" who had it all the time.

Tobacco is the most important plant in the world today if we base our judgment on usage. First observed by the white man purposes—to smoke, to chew, in 1492, it required less than a to snuff and even to appease century to reach into every civ- ized country in the world. It reached England very early and was the cigarette. (The and, carried by English mari- word means, simply, "small ci- cers, it went to Russia, Sweden and").

House

Although travelers have reported seeing the natives of Carthage smoking a weed wrapped in paper in the year 1752, the cigarette didn't really get rolling—if you'll pardon a pun—until the English soldiers in the Crimean War (1853 - 1856) copied the Turkish habit of rolling shredded tobacco into paper tubes.

Thus, when the soldiers returned to England, cigarettes came into wide usage. But it took the Americans to make a big thing of it.

American Ingenuity

Some cigarettes were rolled by hand. The average cigarette factory in the tobacco raising states could manufacture about 300 cigarettes per hour.

Then, in 1885, James Drake of North Carolina adopted a machine which could make some 200 cigarettes per minute. His mass production methods was worth about $13 billions.

enabled him to cut prices and lead the field. Other competitors inserted pictures of actresses and athletes and what-not to cut down Drake's lead and soon themselves turned to the machine methods.

Last year the people of the United States smoked an all-time high number of cigarettes—$23 billion of them, an increase of almost 3 per cent over 1962. They also used 72 billion cigars and chewed 65 million pounds of "chaw tobacco."

Big Crop—Big Use

Best figures on the number of tobacco users in the United States reckon that 80 million Americans use the stuff and that about 750,000 farmers in 21 states annually raise tobacco—nearly two and a half billion pounds. That's worth almost one and a half billion dollars.

Wars have always raised the number of tobacco users—partly because servicemen become fond of the custom because others did the best they could with plain ones.

By today's American standards, the preoccupation with snuffly elegance would verge on the hilarious as it did in the early days of the United States. At any rate, an entire nation quit smoking—for a while.

But in 1920, the cash crop amounted to a comparatively small $44.4 millions.

Whole Nation Quits

Can you quit? "Sure!" say the people who have done so.

But at least one time in world history, a whole nation "quit"—at least partially. That was France, in the 18th century.

For some reason, it became fashionable to quit puffing and begin snuffing. It was, at least, a substitute. France, at that time, was in a foppish period and the he-man appearance of a pipe probably wasn't considered elegant enough.

There was great argumentation and national discussions on such things as which was the most graceful way to offer one's snuffbox.

Snuffboxes became jeweled and ornate for those who could afford them, but everybody else did the best they could with plain ones.

By today's American standards, the preoccupation with snuffly elegance would verge on the hilarious as it did in the early days of the United States. At any rate, an entire nation quit smoking—for a while.

Lutheran Pastor Asks Appleton Street Committee to Reconsider Rejections

Representatives of Our Redeemer Lutheran Church, which peared before the common council planning construction of a city's street-sanitation committee school on Midway Road in the town of Menasha, have again requested Appleton water service.

The Rev. Charles Briggs appealed the committee's rejection of the church's request to hook on to the city water line. He said the church was on a par with the University of Wisconsin Center in the township with water.

Under a special arrangement, the City of Appleton does supply the University of Wisconsin Center in the township with water.

Precedent Aspect

However, to permit anyone else to hook onto the line would be precedent setting, according to committee members, who felt it would "open the gates for a flood of requests to serve locations outside the city limits."

Pastor Briggs said his church was on a par with the University of Wisconsin Center, citing that it would also be providing educational opportunity and serve a community function.

About 80 per cent of the property but it was claimed this would be costly.

The church would receive sewer service from the Town of Menasha, but the township does not have municipal water.

Ald. Kenneth Loos (4th), committee chairman, said the city on the same merits as that has been consistent in not providing water service to customers outside the city. "The council has given solid support to this policy," he commented.

Loos explained that before the city could provide a water line to the university center, special legislation had to be passed involving the City of Appleton, and both Outagamie and Winnebago Counties.

The committee, at the suggestion of the church group, agreed to have City Atty. Frederick Froehlich check the contract between the city and university concerning water supply services.

Referred to the city engineering division was a request of the Appleton Park Board to straighten the curve at the bottom of the hill on Green Bay Road in the Bellaire Park area.

Board Turns Down Air Conditioner Request of Father

BARTOW, FLA. (AP)—The Polk County School Board has reluctantly denied a father's plea that a first grade classroom be air-conditioned because his son has a "one in a million" condition—no sweat glands.

W. L. Garner of Winter Haven asked for the air conditioning because his son cannot be outside it for more than 30 minutes without suffering. The cost, he said, would be about $693.

Board members said that it would be impossible to air condition only one room. They said policy is that if an air-conditioner is furnished at no cost to the schools, it could be installed and used.

Wilson's Death
Marked Decline Of Idealism
Today, as 40 Years
Ago, Commercialism
Defeats Moral Force

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
WASHINGTON — Forty years ago this week — on Feb. 3, 1924 — Woodrow Wilson died at his home in Washington. The anniversary is a sad, almost unnoticed event in world history, for it not only marked the demise of a great president but called widespread attention to the decline of American idealism as a moral force in the world.
President Wilson had failed at Paris to convince the pragmatic leaders of Europe that the time had come to put idealism above commercialism, and he also had failed at home to convince the voters that a League of Nations and the interests of needed American participation, marking to any narrow interest Premier Clemenceau of France of their own.

It was published in 1958, and one passage said: "The United Nations' organization except in one particular, follows very closely the pattern of Woodrow Wilson's League. . . but the admission of aggressive dictatorship to its membership would never have been accepted by Woodrow Wilson. Customer or Competitor?

When the Rural Electrification Administration (REA) was created in 1935 for the purpose of loaning money to existing power companies to extend their lines and service into rural areas, less than 11 per cent of the nation's farms and less than 20 per cent of Wisconsin's farms were electrified.

But the power companies wanted no part of rural electrification at that time, except in heavily populated areas where farms were close together . . . where the profits were high and no risks involved.

Rural folks were then compelled to organize their own electric cooperatives to serve themselves, not as a competitor of private power companies which didn't want to serve them to begin with; but as customers for a source of wholesale electric power.

For the fiscal year ending June 30, 1962, the electric cooperatives of the nation paid power companies some $100,000,000, as customers. Not bad business for an industry that wanted no part of rural America back in 1935.

was not far different from what it is today — each government in Europe was primarily concerned with what it could get in the way of territory and what financial benefits could be derived from colonies or possessions. In vain, Mr. Wilson had cried out for the principle of self-determination of peoples. But, in the few instances where independence was granted, a selfish imperialism soon took it away.

There is as yet no monument in Washington memorializing Woodrow Wilson. A small bridge across the Potomac has been named in his honor, but the bridge across the international seas of human evil is still not on the drawing boards of present-day governments. And it may take another 40 years before public opinion realizes that free peoples acting together — not autocratic governments — must shape the destiny of the world. Indeed, the soldiers who died in two World Wars and in Korea, believed they were fighting for American ideals — for a world of true freedom, for the liberation of enslaved peoples, and not for the aggrandizement of master politicians in any country.

Research Shows Education, Drinking Apparently Compatible
ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — The more education an American has, the more likely he is to drink, says Robert W. Jones, assistant director of the Center of Alcohol Studies at Rutgers University.
Well over half of the people with only an elementary education drink, he said Tuesday night. Approximately 70 per cent of the people with high school educations drink and drinkers start at the age of 16 among college graduates, Jones said.
Teen-agers generally follow the example of the parents, once in taverns, an increase of drinking if they do. Jones said, and added that most American factors, Jones said.

Philosopher Appeals To African Leaders
LONDON (AP) — Philosopher Bertrand Russell has appealed to African leaders to stop "the most terrible, systematic slaughter of people that we have seen since the Nazi extermination of the Jews in Europe."
In a statement issued in London, Russell said "1,000 people a day are being slaughtered in central Africa."
The proportion of women who drink has increased because of more leisure time, their acceptance in taverns, an increase of drinking with meals and other factors, Jones said.

Your Problems
Owner of Safety-Pinned Tux
Told to Push Away from Table

BY ANN LANDERS
DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband is 36 years old and 35 pounds overweight. When I married Gordon 11 years ago he was actually skinny. In fact his nickname was "Slim." New Year's Eve Gordon put on his tuxedo for the first time in four years and he looked like a stuffed sausage. He was unable to button the trousers and had to use a large safety pin. If the cummerbund had not been adjustable he could not have worn the tux at all. When I mentioned exercise to Gordon he triumphantly pointed out that in the past five years three of his close friends who were athletes in college had died of heart attacks. He also gave me chapter and verse on nationally famous sports figures who suffered heart attacks at an early age. If exercise is so good for people (as I know it must be) why do so many athletes die young? —Nagging Nellie

Dear Nell: The athletes who drop dead are usually the ones who trained vigorously during their adolescent and post-adolescent years and then quit. Any physician will tell you that moderate, regular, and frequent exercise is very good for middle-aged people. This does not mean an hour of handball or three sets of tennis once a week under a blazing sun—particularly for the man who has sat in the spectator stands during his younger years. You can tell Gordon for me that more people die from over-eating than from over-exercise. And the best exercise of all is pushing one's self away from the table.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm a middle-aged career woman, not a giddy teen-ager, so please

WHAT'S NEEDED IN UNDIES
HERE ARE the minimum requirements for a good wardrobe of underwear:

- 1 pair of briefs or briefies
- 2 pairs of girdles or girdies
- 3 or 4 bras with a strapless or convertible bra if needed for formals
- 6 pairs of panties
- 1 garter belt
- 4 or 5 either full or half slips

With this supply, you should launder after each wearing. However, if you have more than these basic requirements, perhaps twice a week would be time enough to launder these items. Some undies can be laundered in the washing machine, but you will find that they will wear longer if they are always hand-washed, carefully wrung out and not put too near the heat to dry.

bear this in mind when you respond to my inquiry. The man I am dating asked me what I would like for Valentine's Day. He then quoted a maximum figure of how much he would spend. In all my life I was never so astonished. Since he has put the gift on such a crass basis I am not at all sure I want anything from him for Valentine's Day—or any other day, for that matter.

Am I mistaken or did the gentleman show very poor taste?—No Gold Digger

Dear No Gold. Obviously the gentleman is vastly more practical than romantic. And he wanted to make sure his gift to you is something you can use and he can afford. In my opinion he said it awkwardly, but the offer was better than a poke in the eye with a sharp stick.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: All we need from you is a yes or a no. The question I am about to pose has been chewed back and forth in our bridge club for several weeks. The ladies are evenly divided. Here is the question: Do you approve or disapprove of young male children (aged 5 to 11 years) dancing with their mother, an aunt or other adults on a hotel or night club dance floor? We'd also like to know your reasons. Thank you —Bridgettes

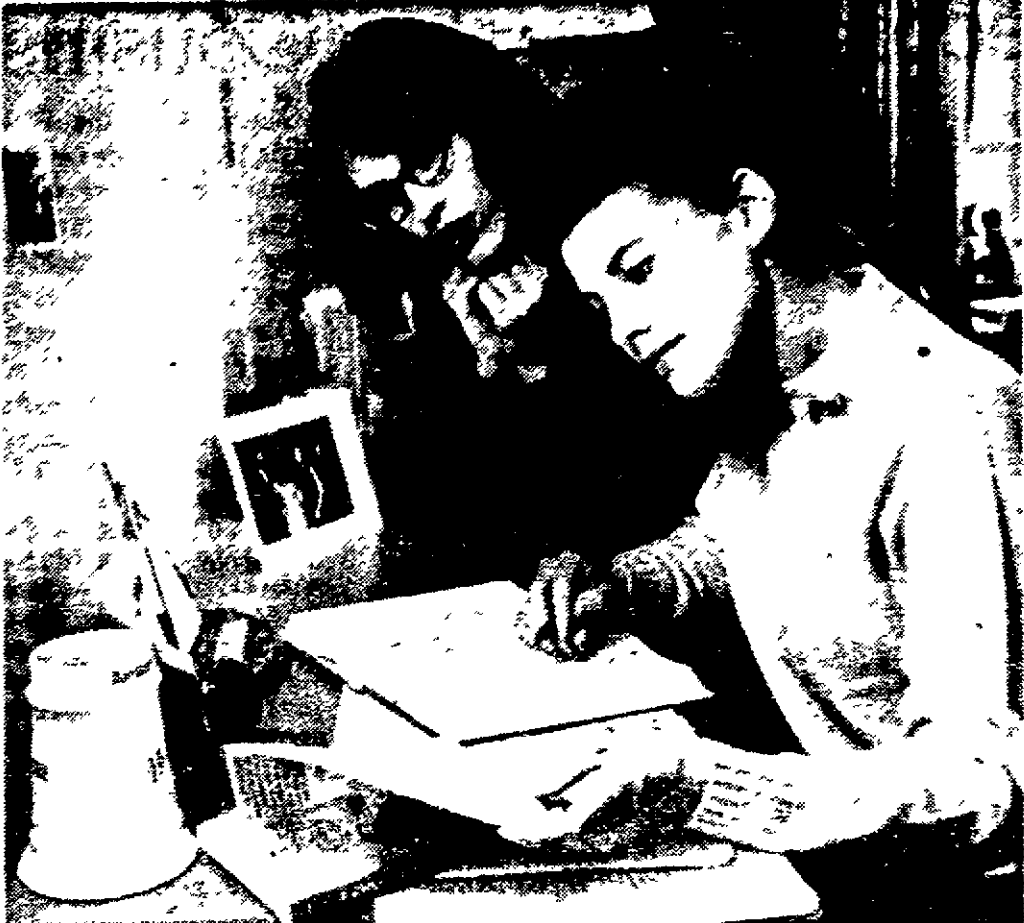

Dear Bridgettes: My answer is based strictly on personal opinion and has nothing to do with right or wrong, correct or incorrect. I do not like to see little kids on a public dance floor—dancing with adults or with each other. Young children are out of place in such an environment. They look like midzets. Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Ex-Miss America Returns
To Northwestern Campus

BY SEYMOUR M. HERSH
EVANSTON, Ill. (AP) — Students at Northwestern University no longer stare when they see a book-laden brunette hurrying across campus in tennis shoes, slacks and a mink coat. The girl is Jacqueline Mayer, 21, of Sandusky, Ohio, last year's Miss America who turned in her crown five months ago to return to Northwestern as a sophomore.

She left school after her freshman year in 1961 to join the Fred Waring Chorus. The mink-worn only in sub-zero weather—a new convertible and a $10,000 scholarship are among the rewards from her year-long reign, which ended September 1963.

Miss Mayer still is in demand for appearances at banquets, parades and conventions. "I came to school simply to be a student," said the coed in an interview, "but it's not so easy."

Money, Mates, In-Laws
Cause Husbands to Skip

BY FRANCIS STILLEY
NEW YORK (AP) — Husbands are skipping out as never before. Last year in the United States more than 75,000 took off from home and hearthside.

Why? Money problems, spouse strife and mother-in-law misery, in almost equal measure.

These facts come from the Tracers Co. of America, which used to be known as "Skip Tracers" and which has tracked down more than a half million "missing" persons in its 40-year history.

The number of husbands who have disappeared each year since 1956 has steadily increased and is now at an all-time high, said general manager Ed Goldfader.

Didn't Suspect
One of the oddest aspects of it is, he said, that "practically all of the wives victimized by such an abandonment had one thing in common — they had no idea that their husbands were going to take off."

Goldfader said his company's files show the average husband who skips out is a man of this description:

Age: 44 to 51 years. Occupation: salesman or semi-executive. Education: 2½ years of college. Personality: amiable and aggressive.

Goldfader said a big factor triggering takeoffs is credit buying. "They buy little things and more little things and still more little things, all for small amounts a month on the installment plan."

Then they discover all the little things all add up to one large amount — more than the fellow's earning.

As skipperos go, they go in all directions — including both husbands and wives. But even the directions fall into a pattern, says Goldfader.

Easterners go to California or Florida. Westerners and southerners come to New York. Midwesterners go to California. Southwesterners go to Illinois. In most all cases, they head for the big cities.

The number of runaway wives Goldfader's company was asked to trace last year was only about one twenty-fifth the number of men.

In their case there was largely only one reason: Mother-in-law trouble.

Mission Field Holds Problems, Promises

Telling of the life, problems in a peculiar situation right and accomplishments of missionaries at stations in Africa the revolution, they were regarded as leaders by the natives. Now the Africans are leaders and the missionaries are advisers.

Stressing the need for education, Mrs. Alton pointed out that in Rhodesia there exist 58 primary schools, 11 upper primary schools and only one high school. But the African has progressed greatly in the last three generations.

"Each mission station is entirely different," stated Mrs. Alton. But she pointed out that each is composed of "gallant groups of people who are so dedicated." One of the keys to success for them is they are able to make themselves flexible. Their deep sense of responsibility enables them to make the most of the frustrations of daily life at a mission station, said Mrs. Alton.

To give her audience a better picture of Africa and the trip, the speaker chose three mission stations as representative of the many they visited.

Felt Government Restraint
In Mozambique, the Altons felt the first restraint of government. They were required to sign in and out as they entered and left the land. Missionaries at the station had recently submitted plans to the government for a proposed school. For an unknown reason, the government did not accept the plans and the school has not been built. Here too they were introduced to the role of women in the society. As they disembarked from the foreign compact bus that brought them to the station, native women rushed up to carry their luggage. The woman are also responsible for the heavy work.

Throughout their travels the Altons stayed with each mission group long enough to get to know the people and try to be of service to them.

Lack Communications
There were no communications available at one of the missions they visited in the Congo. The mission plane was the only source of news. Missionaries had received no mail for two and one-half months.

The African missionaries are

South played low on the first of hearts, and East overtook when East continued with the nine of hearts. West was jack of diamonds. West took sure to win another trump trick, the ace and returned a diamond and South was down four.

West continued with the ten of hearts, and East overtook when an opening bid of one in a suit is passed around to him. Once or twice a year, the opponents have missed a game, and will reach it when given a chance. The rest of the time the hand belongs to the side that has not yet bid, and it is up to the player in fourth position to act instead of passing.

Fourth hand should double (for takeout) with 11 points or more in high cards, but should bid a suit with slightly less than 11 points.

ANSWER: Bid three spades. This forcing response shows very strong trump support with 13 to 16 points (counting distribution as well as high cards).

The Ailing House

Seepage At Porch Wall Joint

BY ROGER C. WHITMAN

Q. Our house is a brick row type. Whenever there is a driving rain with a strong wind behind it, we have water coming in the front wall. It seems to be coming in where the cement porch meets the wall of the house. We have caulked this area, but it doesn't seem to help. Normal rainfall does not affect this situation. Can you suggest anything?

A: Make a careful inspection of the joint where the porch meets the siding. The flashing may have been omitted at this joint, or it may be faulty.

Q: My dining room ceiling is peeling. We painted it two years ago with a water-mixed paint. Some of it is tight and hard to remove. Should I attempt to get it all off, or just the loose paint? Also the windows in this room will not hold paint. The paint on the runner just flakes and peels, and there are large open lines on the sides of the frames. We have no trouble with the rest of the woodwork in this room.

A: The usual cause of paint peeling is moisture working from underneath the paint coating and pushing the paint off the surface. Since you also mention peeling paint on the window frames, I strongly recommend you have a careful inspection made of the flashings, all joints in the frame and where the frame meets the siding. Even a small crevice will allow moisture to penetrate, and moisture is probably entering the top of the frame—and working its way down and out through the ceiling. Make any necessary corrections before repainting. Scrape off all loose and flaking paint; tightly adhering paint can remain. But be sure the surface is absolutely free of grease.

Q: I have six plastic-covered kitchen chairs that are not worn. They were a brown tweed color when new; now they are turning green around the edges. Would there be any way to paint these, or anything that could be done besides replacing the back and seats?

A: Vinyl plastic sprays, in a variety of colors, are now available at paint and housewares dealers, for recoating plastic upholstery. These are easy to use, fast-drying. Or use any good quality latex base paint. Whatever coating is applied, be sure the present plastic surface is absolutely clean and free of any trace of grease, wax, etc., before applying the new finish.

6 Negroes Refused School Admittance

Alabama Mayor Invokes New City Ordinance in Defiance Of Federal Court's Order

TUSKEGEE, Ala. (AP)—The possible closing of the last mayor of a small Alabama remaining public high school town shouldered aside a federal for white pupils in Macon County court order today and barred by.

six Negro pupils from a white school. A crowd of angry white men watched and cursed as the Negroes arrived.

Mayor James Rea of Notasulga, a town of 1200, was flanked by police as he invoked a new city ordinance empowering him to limit enrollment at Notasulga High to exactly its current figure.

At nearby Shorter, six Negroes entered the only other white public school in Macon County, where Negroes outnumber white persons by about five to one.

TUSKEGEE, Ala. (AP)—The mayor of Notasulga invoked a newly adopted city ordinance today and refused to admit six Negroes to the all-white Notasulga High School despite a federal court order to desegregate the school.

Six other Negroes by contrast, were admitted quietly to another white high school at nearby Shorter High School, also integrated by federal court order.

Mayor James Ron at Notasulga stopped the six Negro students before they could get off the county school bus and notified them that under the new city fire and safety inspection ordinance the school already had as many students as it could safely accommodate.

Negro Driver
The bus, driven by a Negro and occupied only by the six Negro students, left the school grounds and headed back in the direction of Tuskegee, where the students had boarded it.

A commercial photographer, Vernon Merritt Jr., was forcibly taken off the bus and thrown to the ground when it was discovered he had slipped aboard at Tuskegee.

Merritt is a son of the former executive secretary to ex-Gov. Gordon Persons.
State troopers guarded Notasulga High and the school at Shorter and kept all but students and faculty members off the campus. They were under orders from their commander, Col. Al Lingo, to use force if necessary to keep federal agents off school property.

The ordinance invoked by the mayor is dated Jan. 27.
FBI agents at Notasulga made no effort to penetrate the trooper barrier.

Shorter Pupils
The Shorter pupils were not accompanied by federal officers but at least two agents of the Department of Justice watched from across a road about 300 yards from the school entrance.
The children walked into the building from a school bus, operated by a Negro driver, after their identities were checked by a highway patrol official.

Apparently a mass boycott of white boys and girls had failed, at least for the time being. Newsmen, also held at a distance of 300 yards, counted 76 white pupils entering the school before the arrival of the Negroes.

An unanswered question temporarily was whether the white pupils would remain in class or walk out later in the day. Normal enrollment is 125.

The threat of violence and the chance of a mass boycott by white students foreshadowed

JFK Coins to Be Available March or April

90 Million Will Be Sent Into General Circulation

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON (AP)—In the news from Washington:

JFK HALF DOLLARS: The first of the new John F. Kennedy half dollars are expected to be available to the public in late March or early April.

Some 90 million coins will be sent into general circulation—the first to be struck next week in mints at Philadelphia and Denver.

In announcing this Tuesday, the White House said actual distribution will not begin until 25 million half dollars are made. They will be distributed through Federal Reserve banks.

The face of the coin bears a likeness of Kennedy facing left. The word "liberty" is above and around the border, and the date is below. Beneath the picture is the motto "In God We Trust."

The presidential coat of arms appears on the other side of the coin.

PENTAGON RAID: Treasury agents have arrested eight civilian Pentagon employees on charges of operating a numbers game.

They swooped down on the Pentagon Tuesday. The arrests were similar to a series made in the Pentagon three years ago.

Besides those arrested in the Pentagon, two others were picked up in Washington, including someone described as being high up in the ring and "loaded with slips."

A Treasury agent estimated the daily gross collection by the alleged ring was about $1,000. He said some of those arrested were employed in the office of the Navy judge advocate general.

REARDON: The White House has announced the resignation from its staff of Timothy J. Reardon, a long-time aide of the late President Kennedy.

In making the announcement, White House news secretary, Pierre Salinger said Reardon would remain in the government as special assistant to Joseph W. Barr, chairman of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation.

Reardon becomes the third close adviser to leave the White House staff since Johnson became President Nov. 22. Special counsel Theodore Sorenson and assistant Arthur Schlesinger resigned earlier to write books.

Saint-Laurent's Fashions Emphasize Trim, Slender

BY LOUISE HICKMAN
Associated Press Fashion Writer

PARIS—Charm and femininity were the keynotes today for Yves Saint Laurent's spring and summer collection.

It's not a question of ruffles and frills. It is a whole look, the kind of look that makes heads turn—in admiration.

The shepherdesses of 18th century French painters provided the inspiration. It is romance without nostalgia. The silhouette is curving, indicating a small high bosom. Round, scooped necklines with flowered ribbon bows tied around are a distinguishing feature. Arms are covered.

The effect is of slenderness new to fashion. Shoulders are small. Sleeves are slim.

Suits have small, hipbone-length jackets with set-in sleeves. They are separated from pleated skirts by a hip yoke.

Black and White
There is lots of white-trimmed black: pique and organdy collars and narrow band cuffs edging sleeves that just clear the wristbone. Most necklines are open and feature the ribbon necklet bow. It is black, dotted with a tiny white camellia.

There were also many narrow band collars, rimmed in white and dotted with the camellia.

Coats were double breasted and narrow. They had narrow belts that circled just above the natural waist.

Dresses made Saint-Laurent his greatest point. "They aim to be attractive," he said. They were.

Enthusiastic applause came for a buttoned-back tunic in ecru faille. It was all shape, with scooped neckline and long sleeves. The front was molded to a high bosom, then belted slightly below a big black rose. The back curved out from the shoulderblades. The dress was worn with a big natural straw shepherdess hat, its deep brim edged in black.

The same slender, supple, high - molded line followed through the rest of the collection. At times the back was straight, at times it curved out from the shoulders. It was shown in dresses, tunics, and long tops.

Tubular Dresses
Slimmer, more tubular dresses had shallow shoulder yokes.

Members of the social committee include Mrs. Dan Hennessey, Mrs. George Giesher, Mrs. Otto Dreger, Mrs. Mary Rademacher, Mrs. Leonard Van Zeeland, Mrs. B. W. Tessin and Mrs. Henry Schmidt.

Dress Pattern

BY ANNE ADAMS
You're off to a fine start with this pattern—one dress for city,

Some two-piece or tunic dresses were softly ribbon-tied just below the bosom.

Transparent jeweled and flowered tunics, tops, and dresses veiled slender crepe sheaths, that were marked at the waist or above by a ribbon. Sometimes the ribbon was worn over the tulle "cage" dress, tied candy-box style just above the bosom.

Long, belling "romanesque" gowns were worn with jewel-fringed shawls.

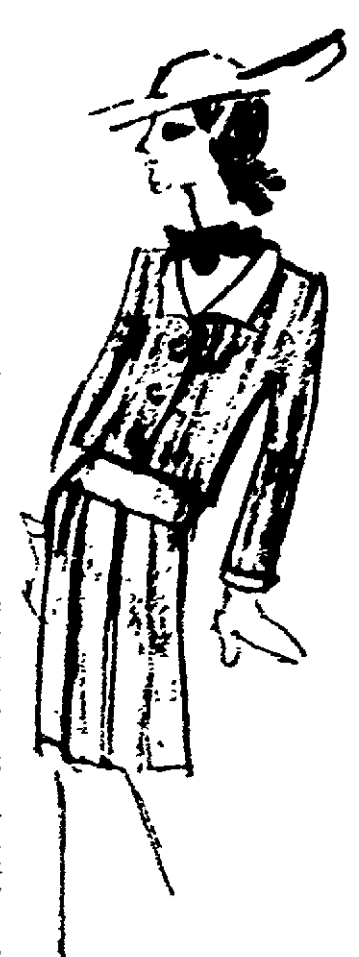

Hats and hairstyles were most important. Shallow-crowned shepherdess hats had large square-cut rims that turned down in front, up in back, sometimes tying under the chin. Long ringlets lay on the back of the neck under these.

For evening, hair was massed high on the back of the head, with big bows or long curls at the nape. Hairstyles were by Alexandre.

Every collection has a bride, but Saint-Laurent's was something stupendous. A heavy braid of dark hair started high on her crown and fell, all intertwined with lilac, to the hem of her dress. In white cotton damask, it was molded high in front, and blown out to a billow in back.

Saint-Laurent was out in the middle of his salon the minute the bride had passed. First embrace went to Mme. Helena Rubenstein, making her only collection appearance of the season. Then the young designer was overwhelmed by admirers.

Fashion Elegance
Many who saw this collection agreed he has given fashion an elegance and refinement missing for some time. The eye must get used to such delicacy, and it will.

The Trend of Paris designer Yves Saint-Laurent is toward a restrained, slender silhouette, narrow shoulders and a small, high bosom. Arms are covered by slim sleeves that just clear the wristbone. Necklines are open, but never plunging. He favored ringlets on the back of the neck. This sketched black suit with a white collar and cuffs and a ribbon necklet indicates his trend. (AP Wirephoto)

SEAMS TO ME Questions On Sewing

By Patricia Scott

Q. How do you bind scallops rather than face them?—MRS. L.M.

A. First cut a strip four times the width of the finished binding you will want, and allow 1/4 inch for each seam allowance. Fold binding in half, right sides out and sew edges to the scalloped edge, with right sides together. When stitching, ease the bind-wash-n-wear fabrics should I avoid certain styles? — MISS H.C.

A. You can't shrink or ease in excess fullness on these fabrics because of the chemicals with which they have been treated. Therefore, stay away from designs that are intricate and have a great many seams. A princess line is bad because it has curved seams. This would be difficult with a fabric that could not be eased. Avoid set-in sleeves for the same reason. Kimono sleeves are all right.

Fewer Females Born Each Year Than Males

BY JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: What are the chances of a mother of three girls having a son?

What is medical science doing now to help parents plan the sex of their children? MRS. J. M. J. The current ratio for all births is 1,049 boys to 1,000 girls.

In your case looking forward to a fourth baby, the statistical in probability of having a boy is about 51 per cent.

At any time and for any mother, the probability of having a boy (or a girl) still stays close to 50-50.

Science is trying to find some additional facts on which to proceed. We know that sex is determined by an XX gene combination with either an XX or an XY. But we do not know how Nature selects genes.

There is no way for us to control the sex of babies. But Nature seems to do a fair job of it.

If you happen to have a fourth girl, you can be rather sure that some other mother is having a fourth boy. See? Nature at work!

Pinworm Attacks

Dear Dr. Molner: My four-year-old boy has attacks of pinworm about once a year. Does the entire family need to take medication with him? I am enclosing 20 cents in coin and a stamped, self-addressed envelope for a copy of your booklet "The Commonest Pest — Pinworm."

MRS. P.W.P. The booklet will explain. Frequently the family must be treated, because adults can harbor pinworm. However, if the boy is picking up pinworms from playmates, and the adults to the simultaneous treatment. I've known of an entire neighborhood of school children being treated simultaneously in order to put an end to the trouble.

Acne Treatment Dear Dr. Molner: In the sandpaper treatment for acne scars, how long would it take? And how long would it take? But we do not know how for the face to get back its normal color? And how much would it cost?

G.A. The term "sandpaper treatment" actually applies to a variety of methods. A rotary steel brush, for example, may be used. However, the purpose is the same: To remove the outer layer of skin, even off the bumpy areas and allow a new and smoother skin to grow.

This means removing skin to a depth at which a little bleeding occurs. (Naturally an anesthetic is used.) The planing (or "sandpapering") must be done under antiseptic conditions, and the surface then must be protected with a sterile covering until new skin has formed.

The time required for the procedure, the speed of healing and the cost all vary greatly, depending on how much area needs treatment and the degree of scarring.

Seeks Softener Dear Dr. Molner: Is there any stool softener I can take other than mineral oil? MRS. S. S. There are a dozen or so preparations containing dioctyl sodium sulfosuccinate, which is very effective and non-irritating.

KAUKAUNA — Women who have started work on Lenten projects will report on progress at a meeting of the Knights of Columbus Ladies at 7:45 p.m. Thursday at the Knights of Columbus hall.

A social hour will be held after the business session. Mrs. Emil Franz is committee chairman.

habit, write to Dr. Molner in care of this newspaper for a copy of his helpful booklet, "Enuresis—Ten Ways To Stop Bed-Wetting." Please enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 20c in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

Dr. Molner is delighted to receive letters from his readers, but regrets that because of the great number received daily he cannot answer them individually.

Whenever possible, Dr. Molner uses readers' questions in his column.

Bed-wetting is a distressing problem. If your child has the

Today's Etiquette

BY LOUISE DAVIS

ILL-MANNERED GUESTS

Dear Louise: Has a guest the right to ask or request her hostess to change the hour for a dinner party? We have friends of long standing who claim that their baby must be fed promptly, thus making it inconvenient for them to arrive on time. When giving a dinner, I always say, "Please come at 7," as I did again last week. The wife said, "Would you mind changing the hour to you and this couple, I suggest

Davis

$ so that I can feed the baby?" I agreed which meant I had to call our other guests for the second time. My husband is burned up and at this point, so am I. An 8 p.m. dinner party means that we don't sit down until at least 9:30. This makes it all the later when a party breaks up and I'm sure it is disconcerting to the other guests and also their own baby sitters who must stay on the job until the parents get home.

Louise Davis Answers:

No guest has the right to expect you or any other hostess to change the dinner party hour to suit her own convenience. It is thoughtless and ill-mannered to ask or even hint. I think that you should hold your ground in the future and summon your guests to suit your own time. If it would be agreeable with you mind changing the hour to you and this couple, I suggest that you tell these two friends that you can't very well change the hour and "if you can manage, come at 8 even though we'll be sitting down at 8:30." as early as possible.

Marina Oswald, Amused Then Frightened, Is Much Changed

Editor's Note — Since Marina Oswald has deepened the color here, though she recently said in day, Russian-born Marina Oswald has been making her way through a crowd of reporters to testify behind closed doors for a presidential commission which is investigating the assassination of John F. Kennedy. Her husband was charged with the killing. How has she reacted to the Washington press corps and the spotlight of publicity? What about her demeanor under questioning? Here is a close-up by a newsman who has covered the story this week.

BY STERLING GREEN

WASHINGTON — She walks erect and alone, this widow of 22 who believes her husband was the assassin of John F. Kennedy.

When an overly solicitous escort takes her arm, she shakes his hand off.

If you smile a greeting, she is likely to return a level, blue-eyed, questioning stare, as if wondering why you are trying to be friendly.

Sometimes Amused

When the cameramen run and stumble backwards in front of her, she is a little amused, a bit frightened.

"Silly, silly people," she murmured gently in English on Monday. Only one photographer heard it, or thought he did.

That's the Mrs. Lee Harvey Oswald you see when her guard is up, the rare moment when she is on public display. Walking in a knot of Secret Service men, for instance, toward the hearing room where she answers for hours on end, through an interpreter, the questions of the presidential investigating commission headed by Chief Justice Earl Warren.

The curious gape, the reporters trail and the Secret Service men are all around her. But Russian-born Marina Oswald is alone.

She is apparently alertly conscious she is exhibit No. 1 in the search for the truth in the assassination of Kennedy in Dallas on Nov. 22.

But when the elevator doors close, shutting off the flashbulbs' glare, Marina Oswald turns to the elevator operator, smiles a real smile, and says in accented English, "Good morning, how are you today?" Then until the day-long ordeal of questions begins she chats with those around her.

Demeanor Faultless

Her demeanor under interrogation is apparently faultless. After each session Warren in describing her appearance has used words like "calm," "composed," "very cooperative."

There was no emotional upset even when Oswald's letters to her, written in Russian, were prepared for identification.

On leaving, the slender young mother—she weighs no more than 100 pounds, if that much—poses for photographers in the lobby, and back comes the faint, taut smile that masks what is said to be a broken front tooth.

She is quickly self-conscious. The smile freezes, fades, and won't come back. She ducks her head and walks swiftly to the waiting government car. It moves away to the seclusion of an undisclosed dwelling where Junie is waiting.

Junie is a yellow-haired daughter of 2. Home in Texas, in another Secret Service-protected hideaway, is the baby, Rachel. Rachel was born not many days before her father, the ex-Marine sharpshooter and confused Marxist, was shot down by Jack Ruby two days after the president fell.

Once, fleeing the cameras, Mrs. Oswald showed a pensive side. Half a block away from the disappointed photographers, and well out of camera range, she turned and waved through the rear window.

Yesterday, as the Secret Service men swept her through a crowded corridor, surprised newsmen heard Marina chirp "bye, bye."

Much has changed since the assassin's rifle spoke three times in Dallas, and some of the change has happened to Marina Oswald.

For one thing, she has become more attractive. Not quite beautiful, but definitely pretty.

Great Change

Pictures made in Dallas in the days following the horror showed the face of a woman at least half again Marina's true age, with stringy hair, blank eyes and heavy, irregular eyebrows. Now her medium-dark brown hair is short and feathery. A trace of eye-shadow, it ap-

Diefenbaker Again Heads Canada Party To Be Released

OTTAWA (AP) — Former Prime Minister John Diefenbaker told delegates to the convention of his Progressive-Conservative party: "I want to know where I stand. I want to know where you stand too."

The delegates promptly re-elected him party leader, with only 40 of the 800 delegates objecting.

Ex-Champ's Daughter To Marry Saturday

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Jean Marie Carnera, 20-year-old daughter of ex-heavyweight boxing champion Primo Carnera, has obtained a license to marry Philip B. Anderson, 23, an electrical engineering student.

The couple met two years ago while both were attending Santa Monica (Calif.) City College. They are to be married Saturday.

Free Agent

Warren says she is a free agent, could talk to newsmen if elected him party leader, with men have seen only the high she wanted to. The decision neckline of her dresses, aqua-was hers and her lawyers.

There are some things we wouldn't like her to talk about, Warren conceded, "but I don't think we could prevent her."

Newsmen can't see whether she still wears the wedding ring. And it is incorrect, Warren said, to describe her well-guarded seclusion as "protective custody." She is under no restraint whatsoever; the care of Lee Harvey Oswald for her hands are almost gloved in black kid.

The voice is soft and pleasant, restraint whatever; the care of Lee Harvey Oswald for her hands are almost gloved in black kid.

Her English is good enough for full watch on her and her small conversation, not good daughters is her own wish.

The loner Oswald did not want to learn the language of the United States.

She has two little babies. And she doesn't speak the language they are to be married Saturday.

She has refused interviews very well.

New Lutheran Unit Name, Location Set

Church Council Would Succeed 46-Year-Old Religious Unit

"Lutheran Council in the United States of America" has been recommended as the name and location of a new agency in which most American Lutherans would be represented in a joint program of theological study and Christian service.

The name and site of the agency were selected by the Inter-Lutheran Consultation, a committee composed of seven members each from four church bodies whose combined membership totals more than 95 percent of the 8,600,000 Lutherans in the United States.

Involved in the negotiations are the two members of the National Lutheran Council—Lutheran Church in America and American Lutheran Church, and the two members of the Lutheran Synodical Conference—Lutheran Church—Missouri Synod and Synod of Evangelical Lutheran Churches.

Endorsed Candidates The consultation also endorsed a proposed constitution for the new cooperative association being planned to succeed the 46-year-old National Lutheran Council.

In addition, the consultation processed basic material for bylaws that will spell out the specific functions of the proposed agency in the areas of theological studies, education, missions, welfare, public relations, service to military personnel and special activities.

New York was chosen as the headquarters site by unanimous voice vote on a motion by Dr. Fredrik A. Schioltz of Minneapolis, president of the ALC, seconded by Dr. Roland Wiederaenders of St. Louis, first vice president of the Missouri Synod. No other city gained serious consideration in the brief discussion that preceded the vote.

Establishment by 1967 The names suggested for the new agency will comprise the first 14 articles in the constitution that will be submitted for adoption to the respective conventions of the participating church bodies over the next three years. Present plans called for establishment of the agency by Jan. 1, 1967.

Seventeen names were considered by church representatives before "Lutheran Council in the United States of America" emerged as their final choice on the third ballot. It will be known "initially" as LCUSA.

The name of the present committee composed of seven members each from four church bodies ranked 10th in preference on the first ballot. A suggestion that it be included on the second ballot was not supported by a formal motion and received no further consideration.

Preamble Endorsed The preamble to the proposed constitution endorsed by the church representatives states that the participating bodies "are of the conviction they should and can more effectively carry on their work and further a Lutheran witness by cooperating in matters of common interest and responsibility, cooperation in which is not at variance with their doctrine and practice," and that they "therefore do hereby establish and will maintain a common agency."

The preamble also asserts that the church bodies "acknowledge the Holy Scriptures of the Old and New Testament as the only source and the infallible norm of all church doctrine and practice."

They also, it adds, "see in the Ecumenical Creeds and in the Confessions of the Lutheran Church, especially in the Unaltered Augsburg Confession and Luther's Small Catechism, a pure exposition of the Word of God."

The constitution will be recommended for adoption to the respective conventions of the participating bodies over the next three years. It is expected that the ALC will consider the document next October, the Missouri Synod in June of 1965, the SELC in October of 1965, and the LCA in June of 1966.

These youngsters' faces are expressive as they reach the head of the line in the TB skin test clinic at Franklin School Tuesday, one of the annual series of clinics for fourth, eighth and 11th graders in public and parochial schools, sponsored by the Outagamie County Tuberculosis Association. ### Files for Promotion

Green Bay Insurance Man Backs Road Plan

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — A Green Bay insurance broker Tuesday filed registration papers with the state secretary of state for a promotion campaign to persuade Wisconsin voters to support a freeway bonding program on the April referendum ballot.

Robert M. McKenna is the leader of the "Vote Yes for Highways" Committee which will organize up to 200 "grass roots" subsidiary committees to win popular endorsement for the accelerated highway construction program advanced by Gov. John W. Reynolds.

A skeptical Republican-controlled legislature last November referred the question to a popular vote, over the governor's protests. Most observers believe a powerful campaign effort will be needed to prevent popular repudiation of the proposal.

Insurance View McKenna pointed to his own interest in the public safety value of improved highway construction as an example of the broad-based public sympathy he said should be attracted for the freeway bonding and construction plan. He said the insurance business wants better roads because of a four fold reduction in the auto accident rate on the freeways thus far built in the country.

He announced Robert Smith of the State Department of Resources Development has taken a leave from his state service job to act as executive director of the committee, which has established headquarters in Madison.

McKenna is president of the Wisconsin Association of Independent Insurance Agents. There is an established road improvement promotion group, the Wisconsin Good Roads Association, which has thus far been inactive with respect to Reynolds proposal. McKenna said his committee is not connected with it, but hopes to get its support.

McKenna skirted questions about the involvement of the Democratic governor in the road referendum drive. He said his effort would be non-partisan and that he has not had a partisan affiliation as a private citizen. A budget for his drive has not yet been set up, but contributions will be solicited from interested organizations and individuals, he reported.

Dahlke Returned to Reno; Preliminary Hearing Set Feb. 24

Douglas A. Dahlke, 27, Oshkosh, was returned Tuesday to Reno from San Francisco on an open charge of murder.

The Army dental assistant was arraigned in Reno Justice Court and preliminary hearing was set for Feb. 24. He was taken to Washoe County Jail and held without bail.

Dahlke, who waived extradition Monday, was arrested at the Army's Letterman General Hospital in San Francisco after authorities said he admitted killing his 26-year-old wife, Gloria. He is accused of shooting her with a .22 automatic pistol on Oct. 12, then driving the body to Oshkosh and burying it in the basement of the home of his mother and step-father, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Woodland.

Reason to Quit Smoking Cigarettes

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Jess E. Wright, 43, lighted a cigarette and almost drowned. Driving along Fall Creek Parkway Tuesday, Wright took a deep drag, choked and fainted. His car ran over a curb, rolled down a bank and went into the creek. "The next thing I knew, my hand was dangling in water," Wright said. He waded ashore, unhurt and vowed: "I'm giving up smoking."

U.S. Airlifts Women And Children After Violence on Cyprus

Terrorists Bomb Embassy And Burn Two Automobiles

BY HAL MC CLURE
NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP)—An emergency airlift began removing hundreds of American women and children from this Mediterranean trouble spot today as anti-American violence continued on Cyprus.

Terrorists bombed the American Embassy in Nicosia Tuesday night, slightly injuring a Marine guard, then set ablaze two cars owned by U.S. government employees.

U.S. Ambassador Fraser Wilkins ordered a "voluntary" evacuation of American dependents to Beirut, Lebanon, explaining he no longer had confidence in the ability of Greek Cypriot police to keep order.

Archbishop Makarios, the Greek Cypriot president, in a speech broadcast to the island, denounced the bombing as day as anti-American violence and the work of "heinous criminals."

The terrorism appeared designed to demonstrate Greek Cypriot opposition to an American-British plan to assign a North Atlantic Treaty Organization peace force to enforce the truce between the island's warring Greek and Turkish communities.

Makarios, in effect, rejected such a force Tuesday by demanding that it be answerable to the U.N. Security Council. The United States and Britain say such a condition is unacceptable because it would give the Soviet Union a chance to interfere.

British Request to U.S.

In Washington, the State Department expressed shock at the "irresponsible" attack on the U.S. Embassy and urged Makarios to restore order and catch the culprits.

The United States took up its peacemaking role on Cyprus at the request of Britain, which has been unable to work out a solution to prevent revival of the communal violence in its former colony.

Excise Taxes Repeal Move Up in Senate

Stock Dividends Credits Beaten By 3-Vote Margin

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senate Democratic leaders faced another stiff battle today on the tax cut bill—a Republican effort to repeal the 10 per cent excise tax on jewelry, watches, luggage, cosmetics and furs.

The vote was expected to be just as close as Tuesday when the administration forces beat back—by only three votes each time—major drives to retain the credit on stock dividends and to give a tax break to parsons putting children through college.

There seemed to be a good chance the $11.6-billion tax-cut bill would be passed by Thursday night, well ahead of the time expected earlier.

Sen. Thurston B. Morton, R-Ia., planned to offer the amendment to repeal the excise tax in the absence of Republican leader Everett M. Dirksen, III., who is hospitalized.

Excise Tax Assailed

Republicans contend the levies, mostly dating from World War II, are nuisances and should be cut out. The estimated gross revenue from wiping out the excises in the four categories is $450 million a year.

Administration supporters contend that the subject of excises should not be brought in on the pending bill.

Democratic senators supplied 47 votes Tuesday night to defeat a Morton amendment, which would have stripped from the bill the repeal of the 4 per cent credit allowed on stock dividend income.

All of the 31 Republicans present plus 13 Democrats supported the proposal. It would have eliminated from the bill its biggest revenue-producing section.

Repeal of the dividend credit would yield an estimated $300 million a year for the Treasury.

The defeat of the amendment indicated that the repealer, put into the bill in the House, would be retained in the final version of the legislation.

In another close finish Tuesday, an amendment of Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., to allow a tax break on college education costs was defeated 48 to 45.

Both Wisconsin senators voted for the amendment.

Woman and Girl Die in Accidents

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The deaths of a Wausau woman and a Racine County girl in separate accidents have boosted Wisconsin's 1964 highway toll to 93, compared with 50 on this date one year ago.

Mrs. Florence Wolgram, 45, of Wausau, died early today of injuries suffered late Tuesday night in a two-car crash on Madison's far east side. She was riding in a car driven by Milton Blumenberg, 54, of Oak Park, Ill. Blumenberg's injuries were not serious.

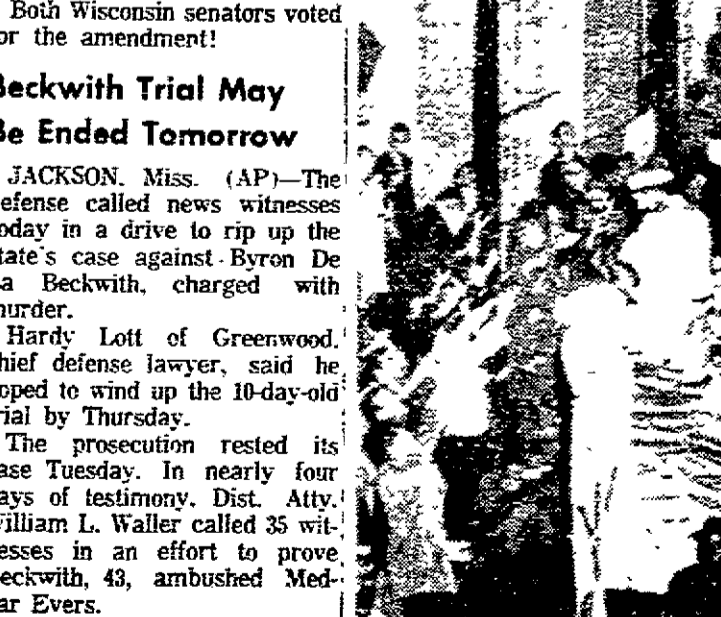

Connie Foreman, eight-year-old daughter of Mrs. Peter McCormick of Kansasville, was killed Tuesday night when struck by a car on Highway 75 in Kansasville.

Beckwith Trial May Be Ended Tomorrow

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—The defense called news witnesses today in a drive to rip up the state's case against Byron De La Beckwith, charged with murder.

Hardy Lott of Greenwood, chief defense lawyer, said he hoped to wind up the 10-day-old trial by Thursday.

The prosecution rested its case Tuesday. In nearly four days of testimony, Dist. Atty. William L. Waller called 35 witnesses in an effort to prove Beckwith, 43, ambushed Medgar Evers.

U.S. Protests Incident at Accra Embassy

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States has protested to the government of Ghana concerning anti-American demonstrations in front of the U.S. Embassy in Accra.

The U.S. protest was issued Tuesday night by G. Mennen Williams, assistant secretary of state for African affairs, to Ambassador Miguel A. Ribeiro of Ghana.

One unofficial report said demonstrators tore down the U.S. flag outside the embassy but that the assistant attaché, in what unofficially was termed an act of courage and bravery, ran it back up.

The attaché was identified as Adger E. Player, 31, a Negro from Denver, Colo., who is serving in his first State Department post. He was named to it July 13, 1962.

The demonstrators marched around the embassy and carried placards that read "down with Yankee imperialism" and "Ghana yes, Yankee no."

U.S. Ambassador William P. Mahoney Jr. made a strong representation to Foreign Minister Kojo Botsio of Ghana.

Towns Isolated by Snow in Southwest

Drifts as High as 10 Feet In Some Parts of 5 States

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The weather was blamed for four deaths in New Mexico and three in southeastern Texas. Helicopters stood by today waiting for the weather to clear to join a search for two cowboys missing in the Texas Panhandle since yesterday.

Snowfalls of 6-25 inches were whipped into drifts of up to 10 feet in eastern New Mexico, southeastern Colorado, southwestern Kansas and the Texas and Oklahoma panhandles.

Thousands of cars and trucks and some buses dotted the sides of the highways and streets, abandoned by occupants now snowbound in motels and hotels waiting out the storm.

Schools, offices and stores remained closed in many cities and towns, except for emergency use.

Texas Gov. John Connally put Amarillo on an emergency basis and mobilized the National Guard for duty. The snowfall ranged between 10-15 inches in the area.

The heaviest snow was 25 inches in Borger, Tex.

Wilkinson Seeks GOP Senate Seat From Oklahoma

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—Former Oklahoma Football Coach Bud Wilkinson today made his long-expected announcement that he is a Republican candidate for the U.S. Senate.

Wilkinson, the nation's winningest football coach, made the announcement at a news conference, making it clear that he would pitch his campaign on a conservative note and saying he is confident he can win.

Wilkinson joins another glamorous candidate, Astronaut John Glenn, in plunging into a political career this year. Glenn is seeking the Democratic Senatorial nomination in Ohio.

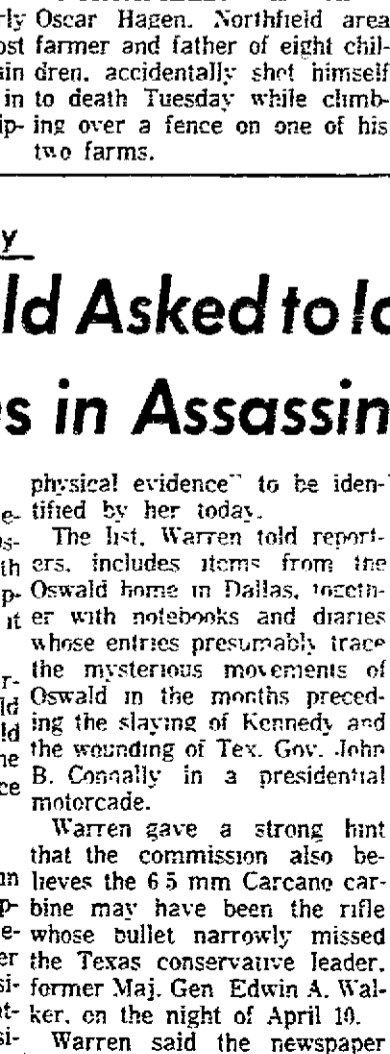

"I'm in this thing to win and I think I can win," Wilkinson said. "I intend to win this race and keep on winning."

"I am not a professional politician," Wilkinson said. "However, political office is not the private preserve or special responsibility of those who confine their lives to politics. Government in our free land does not belong to politicians. It belongs to the people."

9 Proposals Include Fair Packaging, Complete Data On Hidden Interest Charges

BY FRANK CORMIER
WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson asked Congress today for new laws to protect consumers against phony packaging and disguised interest charges. And he suggested possible use of federal experts to help low-income families prepare household budgets.

Johnson, in a special message on consumer interests, endorsed nine specific pieces of legislation including pending bills to ban deceptive packaging and to require full disclosure of interest rates on installment purchases.

"For far too long," Johnson said, "the consumer has had too little voice and too little weight in government." The President said that while labor, business, farmers and professional groups have been well represented, the consumer "has had to take a back seat."

The most novel idea in the message—the use of trained government workers to help low-income families learn more about budgeting and how to "get the most for their money"—was not put forward in the form of legislation.

Hopes to Extend Service

Instead, Johnson said he was asking all federal agencies interested in consumer education to explore fully the possibility of adapting the Agricultural Extension Service concept, "so today for new laws to protect consumers against phony packaging and disguised interest charges. And he suggested possible use of federal experts to help low-income families prepare household budgets."

Johnson also said the government would try to promote consumer education in the schools and encourage more young people "to seek instruction in the fundamentals of budgeting, buying and borrowing."

He said his committee on consumer interests soon will begin a series of regional conferences to explore "the problems of adequate consumer information."

Adequate Information

Johnson devoted most attention to truth-in-packaging proposals.

"I recommend legislation to insure that the consumer has access to the information necessary to make a rational choice among competing package products," he said.

As for truth-in-lending, he called for a new law that would require lenders to disclose in advance the total amount of interest to be paid and the annual rate of interest.

Other legislative recommendations were:

A requirement that cosmetics

Witness Says Hoffa Told of Bribe Plan

Wanted to 'Get to Few' Jurors in Conspiracy Trial

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP)—A Teamsters official testified today that James R. Hoffa told him of plans to "try to get to a few scattered jurors" in the Tuesday had sought to block his testimony on grounds he had been planted illegally in their midst by the Justice Department.

Judge's Ruling

"I find the government did not place him in the midst of the defense," Judge Wilson said. "He was knowingly and voluntarily placed there by one of the defendants."

Partin had testified Tuesday that Hoffa had invited him to Nashville on the day his 1962 trial began to discuss union business.

Defense lawyers flew in overnight from Washington a lawyer who defended Hoffa in the 1962 trial.

"I knew there was a serious security leak among the defense counsel," testified Daniel Maher, the lawyer. The government, he said, had "seemingly uncanny ability to predict our moves."

Asked About Partin

He said he once inquired about Partin—who said he was in constant contact with defense lawyers and Justice Department officials during the 1962 trial. But, Maher said, he was assured by Hoffa and one of his lawyers, "He's one of us; he's all right."

When Partin—under indictment in Baton Rouge for stealing union funds—took the stand Tuesday, the defense objected bitterly, asserting use of his testimony would be a violation of privacy.

Third Day of Testimony Mrs. Oswald Asked to Identify Gun, Other Items in Assassination Quiz

BY STERLING F. GREEN
WASHINGTON (AP)—Some time today Mrs. Marina Oswald was to be confronted with the rifle found in a Dallas sniper's nest Nov. 22 and asked if it was her husband's.

With the Italian-made carbine before her, the 22-year-old widow of Lee Harvey Oswald was expected to say yes, as she already has done under police questioning.

Bought Last March

The rifle, bought by mail in March by the ex-Marine sharpshooter and equipped with telescopic sights, will then enter the file of exhibits of the presidential commission investigating the assassination of President John F. Kennedy.

Chief Justice Earl Warren, presiding over the third consecutive day's interrogation of the Russian-born wife of the man charged with killing Kennedy, said the rifle is among building where Oswald worked. "A great number of items of the building from which the assassin fired the rifle was missing from its hiding place at their Dallas home when she led the police to the spot, after Oswald's capture."

Officials have disclosed that Oswald's palm print has been found on the bolt-action carbine, and that shreds of brown shirt he wore that day the wounding of Tex. Gov. John B. Connally in a presidential motorcade.

Warren gave a strong hint that the commission also believes the 6.5 mm Carcano carbine may have been the rifle whose bullet narrowly missed the Texas conservative leader, former Maj. Gen. Edwin A. Walker, on the night of April 10.

Warren said the newspaper accounts indicate that Mrs. Oswald has recognized the rifle, now in the hands of the FBI, and if they do, we could not release the security matters at the time of our report.

So far nothing has been encountered which might have to be withheld, he said.

France Won't Send Cyprus Peace Force

Minister Asserts Nation Not Bound By Zurich Statute

PARIS (AP)—France refused today to join an international peace-keeping force on Cyprus as proposed by Britain.

The French Cabinet spokesman announced this following a Cabinet session with President De Gaulle.

Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville reported on developments on the eastern Mediterranean island, and on the British proposal for a North Atlantic Alliance force of about 10,000 men to maintain peace between Cyprus' Greek and Turkish populations.

Information Minister Alain Peyrefitte, the Cabinet spokesman, said the legal basis for a peace-keeping force would be the 1959 Statute of Zurich concerning Cyprus.

Peyrefitte was referring to the conference at Zurich in 1959 between the Greek and Turkish premiers which ended fighting between the two Cypriot communities.

The minister said France had not participated in drafting the Zurich agreement, and hence did not feel herself involved.

U. S. and Spain Checking Death Of Airman's Son

ZARGOZA, Spain (AP)—U.S. and Spanish authorities said today they were investigating the death of Kenneth K. Kimber, the 15-month-old son of U.S. Airman IC and Mrs. Kenneth A. Kimber.

The child was pronounced dead at a Spanish emergency clinic.

An autopsy performed at the joint U.S.-Spanish Air Base here showed the child died from head injuries. The mother, Mrs. Martha S. Kimber, was treated for shock at the air base hospital. The father, a native of Wisconsin, gives Statesboro, Ga., as his home town. The mother comes from the same state.

Meat Inspection

Require inspection of all meat and poultry sold in the country, whether or not it crossed state lines. Johnson noted that present federal law requires inspection only of these items when they cross state lines.

Grant subpoena authority in administrative hearings under the Food, Drug and Cosmetic Act.

Require warnings of accident hazards on labels for drugs, cosmetics, and pressurized containers.

End the practice of allowing pesticide manufacturers to market their products before they have been certified as safe by the Agriculture Department.

More Power for FTC

Commission authority to issue

temporary cease-and-desist orders, subject to court review, when the FTC believes continuation of alleged false advertising or other unfair practices would irreparably injure the public.

Extend to over-the-counter stocks and bonds the same full disclosure requirements that now insure public release of financial data about securities traded on the stock exchanges.

A much-discussed bill to require "truth-in-packaging" has been introduced by Sen. Philip Hart, D-Mich., and Rep. Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y.

The measure, designed to make it easier for the housewife to compare packages of competing products, had approval of the late President Kennedy.

So, too, did a "truth-in-lending" bill that would require advance disclosure of the annual rate of interest to be paid by a borrower.

Johnson last month placed added emphasis on consumer problems when he appointed Esther Peterson, an assistant secretary of labor, as his special assistant for consumer affairs.

Although Mrs. Peterson has retained her labor post, she plans to move her office soon to the Executive Office building, next door to the White House. There she will direct the fast-moving activities of the newly created President's Committee on Consumer Interests.

The committee was told by Johnson to "lead the campaign against sharp practices and unwarranted price increases."

Inflation Dangers

Johnson has indicated that he will expect the committee to help raise a public clamor about inflationary hazards.

Johnson also created a Consumer Advisory Council, similar to one established by Kennedy, to be composed of private citizens qualified to represent consumer interests.

This group is to advise the

State Corporation Borrows $75,000 To Acquire Land

MADISON (AP)—The state corporation empowered to acquire land at Bong Air Base announced Tuesday that a Madison firm will lend the corporation up to $75,000 to buy 565 acres of the abandoned Kenosha County base.

The acreage will be developed for industrial use and Norman Herro Associates of Madison also would assume responsibility for management, maintenance and development of the property, according to a state plan.

Herro represents a development group which is expected to be expanded to include businessmen and developers in Kenosha and Racine. The proposal is subject to further negotiation.

The Wisconsin Federal Surplus Property Development Corporation invited proposals to raise money for purchase of the 565-acre site. The proposal also is subject to General Services Administration approval.

The original 5,540-acre base was abandoned by the Air Force in October, 1959. The GSA had released several parcels for school and conservation use.

Picketing of Schools in Second Day

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Civil rights picketing went through its second day at three public schools Tuesday and the only incident recorded was a pushing scene involving police and two assemblymen.

The demonstrations calling for an end to "de facto" segregation began Monday and are slated to continue through today. "De facto" segregation is the result of residency patterns and not policy.

Joined Line

Observers said that Assemblymen Raymond Lathan and Isaac Coggs joined a line of Negro children being transported from the 12th Street School to the Sherman School. A policeman stood in the way to block their boarding the bus. When the officer was questioned by Lathan, several other policemen joined in blocking the door.

One of the officers was pushed into the bus, and witnesses said the two assemblymen were moved back by the officers while the driver closed the bus door and drove off.

Pair Accosted

One policeman asked the pair, "Do you want to be arrested?" Ernest Green, a leader of the pickets, told the officers that Lathan and Coggs were not members of the Congress of Racial Equality (CORE), which has joined other civil rights groups in the demonstration.

"How can I keep them out of the picket line?" Green reported.

Knowles Wants Study Of State Government

REEDSBURG, Wis. (AP)—Warren Knowles, New Richmond attorney seeking the Republican nomination for governor, recommended Tuesday night an inspection of state government to find "hidden expenses, inefficiencies and boondoggles."

"I am sure that on the whole our government is operating efficiently, under the care of dedicated civil servants," Knowles told a Lincoln Day dinner of Sauk County Republicans. "But it has been many years since our entire state complex was inspected for waste and loss," he added. "It is time we ran a vacuum cleaner over the whole operation."

Pay Increases for 5 Chilton Officials Okayed by Council

Police Chief Slated for Top Increase in Salary Schedule

CHILTON — Pay hikes for $5,130 during 1963, an increase of $220 in the new salary schedule. Chilton fire chief received a pay hike of $40 from $860 last year to $900 this year. This year he will not be paid the $2 for each monthly meeting paid to the firemen.

The plan, drafted by the finance committee, also raised the maximum hourly wage possible for street department employees to attain.

The city clerk's salary was upped to $4,300 for 1964 from $4,640 a year ago. The deputy clerk or bookkeeper, will receive $2,820 compared with $2,640 last year.

Street department foreman will receive $4,740. This is a new position created when the post of street and weed commissioner was abolished and the director of public works took its place. Street commissioner salary last year was $4,620.

Biggest Boost

The biggest jump in salary went to the police chief. He will receive $5,400 compared with

Bid Action on Well Delayed

Chilton Council to Defer Contract for Engineer's Report

CHILTON—No action was taken Tuesday by city council on three bids for drilling of a new city well.

Mayor Elmer Daun announced the city engineer will review the bids and report at the Feb. 18 meeting when the contracts will be awarded.

The city had advertised for bids on two alternatives. First to continue developing the present well and second to start anew at a different location.

Problems developed with present drilling when a deposit of decomposed limestone was encountered. This would force drillers to effect a seal to a depth of 36 feet rather than the proposed 33 plus feet. Water output would thus be limited.

None of the three companies submitting bids attempted to bid on the first proposal.

The bids submitted were $8,949 by Egerer and Galloway Well Corp.; Miller Well and Pump Co., $9,465, and $8,891. Millaeger Well and Pump Co. All the firms are in Milwaukee.

'Scottish Plaids, Bit O' Brogue' to Set Scene for Waupaca Bonspiel

WAUPACA — Scottish plaids and a "bit o' a brogue" will be the decor this weekend as Waupaca is host to visiting Canadian and United States curlers at the 21st Annual Waupaca Bonspiel.

The stone-sliding, broom-wielding visitors are again expected to bring along a few new pranks if they are in their usual good form.

Bonspiel Chairman Harold John Hansen and Charles Lambell reports Waupaca will have 25 visiting rinks for the 32-rink Spiel. Topping the list will be four Canadian rinks, which will make the Waupaca event an annual visit.

Back for another try at taking honors away from local curlers will be the Bert Souliere, Ken Primeau and Hugh McClure last year's bonspiel are Harold rinks from Sioux Ste. Marie, Mich., and the Jim Pederman rink, London, Ontario.

Clintonville to Take Option On 'Pool Shack' for Center

Council Votes Action for Youth Facility Pending Feb. 18 Meeting

CLINTONVILLE — City council voted Tuesday night to take a 45-day option on a local pool but there had been no difficulty with teen-agers, except in finding seating space. Age group is high school freshmen through seniors.

Other discussion covered activities, availability of food and entertainment.

Sinkewicz appointed a committee consisting of Dr. Peter Oberhauser, chairman, representing Jaycees; Ed Nelson, American Legion; Ald. Hedtke, council; the Rev. John A. Sizemore, Hogan, and representing high school, Ellen Kassilke, Barbara Wiese, Jay Johnson and Jim Wilka.

Check Possibilities

Various facilities possibly available were checked including the former Peterson garage, Mitch's former Trading Post, former office of Dr. E. A. Miller, possibly two church buildings or an organization's clubhouse. The possibility of other personnel being interested in continuing with "The Pool Shack" as a private enterprise also was discussed.

Sinkewicz said "even with this option, I think the city would be glad to have private enterprises come along."

Further discussion, Sinkewicz said, would include present facilities or other facilities, or attempt to improve present facilities, or should the decision be "let nature take its course." The option for 45 days was set to allow Hogan time to dispose of it by the end of his 60 day extension.

Sinkewicz said he talked to the owner of the building, Norman Erickson, and he was agreeable to work out arrangements with the city.

Youngsters Opinion Mrs. John DeVaud, one of those present at the meeting, gave opinions of the young people.

She said they didn't feel they needed something elaborate, but there was a need for something more for the girls.

Hedtke said the American Legion had indicated it would continue dances as it sponsored last summer. Representatives of the Jaycees at the meeting last Wednesday night also indicated their cooperation with plans for the youth of the community.

Another parent present, Robert Anderson, said he thought the teen-agers should have some place to meet informally after school and weekends, and their needs weren't so much for organized parties and dances, but just for a meeting place.

The mayor said possibly something can be done at the special meeting Feb. 18.

The city clerk and mayor were authorized to make an offer to purchase property from the Curtis Co. Inc., for a parking lot on the south side of the city. The council was also informed that an option has been taken on property owned by Wilford Cupp.

Curtis property is located at Smith street and Wolf River Avenue and the Cupp property is located across the street on Wolf River Avenue. It is adjacent to an alley and has a house. The Curtis property is vacant.

It is expected that the council will act on the purchase of one of these properties at its next meeting. Mayor Wilmer Schlafer told the council it is apparent that additional parking will be needed soon on the north side of the city. City planning consultants will make recommendations for northside parking in their next report.

Offensive Odors Complaints of offensive odors gave rise to the council's decision to hire Donohue and Associates, Inc., Sheboygan, consulting and design engineers, to make a complete sewerage system and sewage plant survey.

Estimated cost of the survey is $2,500. A portion of the fee will be refunded if the firm surveys the corrective measures it recommends Donohue is to work with the city planning consultants and will make estimates as to costs of interceptor sewers and additions to the present plant.

The study is expected to begin in about two weeks. Recommendations will take into consideration anticipated use for the next 20 years.

The southside parking and sewage study were recommendations of the planning commission.

The city council also authorized the purchase of right of way for a grade crossing of the railroad tracks on High Street. Mrs. Anna Klingert and William Rice each received $1,000 for the property.

Okay Pay Rate For Teachers In Weyauwega

Little Change in Schedule Approved
By Board Last Year

WEYAUWEGA — Weyauwega Union High School Board of Education Monday night approved a 1964-65 teachers salary schedule basically the same as that used for the past two years.

Of the nine items in the schedule, only two were changed. First was a $100 increase in base salary for teachers holding a masters degree and the second will allow teachers to receive $15 per credit earned in summer school up to nine credits.

The base salary increase for teachers with masters degrees boosts starting salary for such teachers to $4,000. Starting salary for BA degree holders will remain the same at $4,500.

In earlier schedules teachers who attended summer school received $15 per credit up to six credits. Teachers now will be allowed to receive $15 per credit up to nine credits earned in summer school.

H. James Ramsdell, superintendent of schools, said the two recommendations were the only changes requested by the teachers salary committee. The committee said the schedule now in force is fair and acceptable to teachers, he said.

The schedule includes nine increments for salary increases. Each yearly increase is five per cent of the previous year's salary. Pay for supervising extra curricular activities is also satisfactory to teachers, he said.

Extra curricular activity pay such as coaching is based on time actually spent working. A formula is then used to pay the teacher a percentage of base pay.

The schedule now being used does not include anything extra for a head of family. There is no difference in the salary of men or women teachers either, Ramsdell said.

Vocational Education Key to War on Poverty

BY SYLVIA PORTER

"One thousand dollars investment in salvaging an unemployable youth today can return $40,000 or more in his lifetime" — President Johnson, State of the Union Message, Jan. 8, 1964.

"Poverty and ignorance go hand in hand. Of families headed by a person with only a grade school education, 37 per cent are poor." — L.B.J. Economic Report, Jan. 20, 1964.

Porter

On the basis of the Kennedy panel's recommendations, the vocational education legislation of 1963 was written. Now President Johnson has asked for funds to translate its objectives into reality as quickly as possible.

Education Law

The new vocational education law will revolutionize our system of vocational and technical training. It will help train the slow learner and the technically talented, will reach both the academically handicapped and the economically deprived. It will provide funds for future pioneering efforts to establish "vocational boarding schools" along the lines of the familiar college campus and for experimental work-study programs which will allow youngsters to hold part-time jobs while they are being trained. Its sweeping mandate will affect the more than 4 million youths and adults now enrolled in our vocational schools and the many millions more who will be added to the rolls in coming years.

It will, says Dr. Roy Dugger, Director of Manpower Development in the U.S. Office of Education, "contribute a large body of desperately needed technical personnel to industry. Eventually, it may signal the end of our great pool of unskilled, unemployable workers in whom industry has little interest today."

Big-time promises indeed! Yet, astonishingly little has been written about this law, few even know it has been passed. Here's the background.

Vocational System

In recent years, our vocational education system — established under the Smith-Hughes Act of 1917 — has become progressively out of step with reality.

With a few admirable exceptions, the schools are obsolete in structure, training and equipment and inadequately staffed. Aware of this, President Kennedy appointed a study panel early in his Administration to report on the system. Among the panel's findings were:

Up to 80 per cent of our high school students will not go on to finish college, will drop out somewhere along the line and enter today's competitive job market with insufficient training. Yet, only 20 per cent of high school students today attend vocational schools and the schools get only a fraction of funds spent for education.

Appalling differences in the availability and levels of vocational training exist from state to state and community to community — despite the growing need everywhere for this type of training.

Geared to Past

Much of what is being taught is geared to the past. A shockingly disproportionate amount of federal-state funds is being channeled into agriculture and home economics training. The panel found only six states receiving federal funds offered vocational courses in appliance repair or

'63 Was Big Year for Phones In New London

NEW LONDON — Growth, economy and major construction projects highlighted New London's communications system for 1963, according to Joe Oberlin, manager of the Wisconsin Telephone Co.

In a year-end review of the city's telephone system, Oberlin pointed out New London residents increased the average number of daily local calls by 233. This represents a record high of 9,147 calls per day. The number of telephones serving the city now stands at 3,165, an increase of 95 during the past year.

Construction, Growth Highlight Company's Record

New London telephone construction projects were directed at revamping the city's telephone network in preparation for dial telephone service, scheduled for late this year. A new central office building was completed. Located in the 100 block of E. Spring Street, the new structure will house central office switching equipment and provide business office space.

Cable construction within the city expanded and reinforced the existing telephone network. Oberlin said progress on the meeting this week.

$400,000 dial conversion project is on schedule.

"Nationwide telephone growth was paced by the demands of 15,000 new telephone installations each day," Oberlin said. "Although the Bell System grew dramatically in 1963, national growth trends have prompted an unprecedented $3.25 billion expansion budget for 1964.

International telephone communications were recently improved when the Bell System's new cable ship, "Long Lines," completed laying the world's longest undersea telephone cable, 3,000 miles, between New Jersey and Cornwall, England.

The $47 million construction project became operational in October. It provides 128 voice channels, or three times the capacity of the original transatlantic cable placed in 1956.

The telephone industry has also launched two satellites from Cape Kennedy. The two Telstar's have relayed several hundred telephone, radio and television transmissions between continents since they were placed in space, Oberlin said.

Stanley Witter, appearing for the Dairy Lab Service told the council the yearly service fee of $1,000 would be increased by $180 with the addition of another dairy during 1963.

Witter said the $1,000 fee was based on $180 for each of the five dairies plus a $100 administration fee. Since Thiel Dairy has started dairy product distribution in Chilton, the price will be increased, he said.

NEW LONDON—New London wrestlers swept eight of 11 Gaucke, drawing the heavy-weight duties for New London victory over Shawano here Monday night.

The victory gives the Bulldogs a 4-3 season record.

Shawano jumped off to an early lead when Mike Bristol pinned Bob Quantance in the 100-pound class. Another five points were added to the Indians' score when Wayne Rhade pinned Jay Larsen in the third period of their 112-pound match. Larsen now has a 3-3-1 record.

After that New London started racking up points. In the 129-pound class, Dave Popke decisioned Joe Brennen, 6-2. Jim Malliet decisioned Fred Both, 5-2 and Jim Schreiber picked up his fifth win against two losses by pinning Dick Peterson in the second period of the 135-pound match.

Jackie Voight, wrestling in the 138 pound class for New London, collected his sixth season win against one loss by pinning Dennis Runce. Terry Sullivan also added five points when he pinned Shawano's Al Pone in the 145-pound class.

In the 154-pound class Bruce Schen of the Bulldogs decisioned Bill Koonz. The lone draw of the meet came in the 165-pound class when the Bulldogs' Jim Tanager and Don Plautz ended with a 4-4 score.

In the light heavy weight class, Jim Liebh, New London's only undefeated wrestler, collected his third win by defeat-as representative-at-large for senior high schools. Hubert Wetak, Appleton High School math teacher, is treasurer of the council. Brother Arthur also has been appointed a member of the mathematics committee of the Winona District of the Christian Brothers.

Plans were made for a style show tentatively scheduled for late April. Mrs. Roger Henschel and Mrs. Robert Schulz were named co-chairmen of the event.

The club voted a contribution to the Northern Colony which is a state Junior Woman's Club project.

Mrs. Ramon Richardson was chairman of the lunch committee.

The next meeting of the club will be March 2 with Mrs. Roman Ritchie and Mrs. Calvin Roloff as co-chairmen. "Nutrition and Foods" will be the topic.

Book Report on Meeting Program

ROYALTON — A book report by Mrs. Lawrence Roloff will be the program feature at the St. Bridget Altar Society meeting at 2 p.m. Wednesday at the home and Paper Company when Paul of Mrs. Gus Krueger. Mrs. Robert will review "To Kill a Mocking Bird."

Assisting the hostess will be Mrs. Bernard Faskell and Mrs. William Faskell.

MENASHA — Leroy Empey, district engineer for the State and if the plan is practical. Highway Department, Tuesday morning, said he will present further information is needed, completed preliminary survey. "I think the commission will have something to say," Empey said.

Menasha and the surrounding communities have sought the bridge across the lake for the past 33 years. A petition was presented by Menasha in 1962 for the bridge and a public hearing held in the fall of 1962.

Empey said an answer from the commission on whether to proceed with the construction of the bridge or further study for the bridge may come at the Feb. 13 meeting, although Empey said he has no idea what the answer will be or if one will come at the district engineering department. He said the commission may want further information before deciding on further steps.

Information Package Empey said all the information collected thus far from his department, bridge engineers, railroads and related facilities and the U.S. Army Corps of engineers will be presented in a package to the commission. The commission will determine if a definite need exists and if the plan is practical.

One decision will be whether to proceed with the construction of the bridge or further study for the bridge may come at the Feb. 13 meeting, although Empey said he has no idea what the answer will be or if one will come at the district engineering department. He said the commission may want further information before deciding on further steps.

The bridge-expressway system is the largest project in this part of the state under study. Cost is expected to run into millions of dollars. Division of costs between the municipalities and counties has not been determined.

The plan includes a four-lane bridge across the lake in the vicinity of Ninth Street in Menasha, connecting with U.S. 2 on the west side and Ninth Street on the east. On the east bank the bridge will connect with an expressway which will run north to Winnebago County Trunk P-10 and west across a second bridge near Appleton.

Firemen were called to the scene of a fire at the Thilmann property on the west side of the lake. Cause of the fire was undetermined, according to Thilmann officials, and U.S. 10 and west across a second bridge near Appleton.

2 Chinas Facing Battle for Seat in the United Nations

BY ROY ESSOYAN
TAIPEI, Formosa (AP) — Nationalist China's seat in the United Nations. Paris and Peking got off to a poor start when they announced establishment of diplomatic relations Jan. 27 without clarifying how it would affect the thorny "two-Chinas" concept, according to which both Chinas have a hungry and aggressive giant among nations, will be some relations with any government recognizing the other.

There's an Alice in Wonderland quality about the whole situation. Two Chinas have been an embarrassing fact of life on the world stage since the Chinese Communists drove Nationalist China's Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek and his battered armies off the mainland 14 years ago, and Chiang established himself on Formosa, 100 miles off the China coast. Since then Chiang and Communist China's party chief Mao have round up additional support for

With the aid of March of Dimes funds, the Madison physicians hopes to prepare a birth-defects text book to assist doctors in detecting and treating many of the birth defects conditions they may come across.

A new syndrome involving a pattern of multiple abnormalities has been recognized and defined.

A new treatment regimen was developed that appears to control a blood-sugar defect. Further tests are being conducted.

A weekly clinic has been established for heredity counseling of parents who have had children with birth defects.

Medical students, interns and residents receive lectures and attend seminars on birth defects.

Life in both Chinas is strictly controlled. The control in Formosa is not as total, rigid and effective as on the mainland. But freedom of the press, speech and assembly are limited with some of the Oriental Red tape scribbles as the bounds of national security.

Birth Defects Study Given Another Grant

MADISON — Support for the birth defects clinical study center at the University of Wisconsin Children's Hospital in Madison has been renewed by the National Foundation-March of Dimes with a grant of $19,307 to the UW Medical School.

Director of the birth defects center since its establishment a year and a half ago is Dr. David W. Smith, associate professor of pediatrics.

Dr. John M. Opitz will be acting director from July 1964 to August 1965 while Dr. Smith will be studying human embryology with respect to congenital malformations.

Dr. Smith cited recent accomplishments at the center:

More than 4,400 newborn babies at St. Mary Hospital have been examined for birth defects. The purpose is to learn how often major and minor defects occur. The study showed, for example, that one in 250 had a chromosome defect. Chromosomes are thread-like bearers of heredity in body cells.

8 Possible Candidates For GOP Nomination

4 Are Campaigning and 4
Would if They Were Asked

BY JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON (AP)—Republicans are at sixes and sevens, or eights.

Four have announced they want their party's presidential nomination although why two of them think they have a chance is a mystery.

Four others, more reticent, deny they seek the nomination but don't deny they'd accept a draft. In fact, three say they would.

Some of the eight are jibing at one another and most are jibing at President Johnson and his programs.

Harsh Criticism

The harshest criticism so far is from Sen. Barry Goldwater, of Arizona. He called Johnson a "highwayman of the bureaucratic spoils system."

Goldwater, 55, and these three are the active candidates, all campaigning in the New Hampshire primary.

New York's Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, 55; Sen. Margaret Chase Smith of Maine, oldest of the candidates at 66; and Harold E. Stassen 56, now a Philadelphia lawyer, who made a big pitch for the nomination in 1948 but lost.

Goldwater, far to the right of the others, like the others claims he could run things better.

Lost Momentum

Rockefeller, whose prospects dipped after his divorce and remarriage, is on the liberal side. He is critical not only of Johnson but of Goldwater, too, and for good measure he has taken a swipe at former Vice President Richard M. Nixon, who is one of the reticent four.

Nixon, who shows plenty of signs of hoping for the nomination while steadfastly insisting he won't seek it, only recently said he would accept a draft.

It's hard to figure out why Stassen is in the race. He was the "boy wonder" governor of Minnesota—from 1938 to 1943—but has never been elected to anything since.

Why is he trying for the nomination now? "To enlarge the debate," he says, and to try for the nomination. This week he promised New Hampshire an international airport if he gets elected.

Charming Woman

But then it's hard to say why Sen. Smith—a charming woman and excellent senator and politician who has been in Congress since 1949 and has never lost an election—thinks she has a fiddler's chance for the presidential spot.

She herself is extremely vague on why she's even trying.

It's from the four reticent Republicans that the party may actually pick its candidate. Besides Nixon, now 51, the others are: Pennsylvania's Gov. William W. Scranton, 47; Michigan's Gov. George Romney, 56; and Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., American ambassador to South Viet Nam.

Tried Again

After losing the presidency to John F. Kennedy in 1960, Nixon tried his luck again, this time for the governorship of California in 1962, and lost again. Immediately afterwards, in bitter criticism of the treatment he got from the press, he told reporters that was his last news conference.

He even said that "under no circumstances would he accept a draft." This seemed final enough.

As 1963 wore on both Rockefeller and Goldwater said they thought Nixon was acting like a candidate. And 12 days ago he said he would accept a draft.

One Handicap

Scranton frankly says that while he won't seek the nomination he'd accept it but would enter no primaries. He has one big handicap: He and his qualifications are hardly known outside Pennsylvania. He served one term in Congress.

Lodge, appointed ambassador to South Viet Nam late last year by President Kennedy, has not held elective office since Kennedy took his Senate seat away from him in 1952. When he ran for the vice presidency in 1960 on the ticket with Nixon, he lost again.

But he is a respected figure among Republicans, helped persuade Dwight D. Eisenhower to run in 1952, and now in his critical Viet Nam post denies he's a candidate this year.

Combined Locks Collects $28,215 Taxes in Month

Holy Name Men From Combined Locks Will Hear Scouting Talk

COMBINED LOCKS—Gordon Welch, Kimberly, a member of the Catholic Committee on Scouting and winner of the St. George Award, will speak on "Catholic Scouting Awards" at a breakfast meeting of the Holy Name Society of St. Paul Church following the 8:30 a.m. Sunday mass.

To commemorate Boy Scout Sunday, Cub and Boy Scouts of the village have been invited to receive Holy Communion with the society members and join in the breakfast.

Instant Education?

Over the last decade there has been a change in many elementary and secondary schools toward a tougher academic program for the ambitious, able and willing student. This has meant more heterogeneous grouping of students according to ability in specific fields. It has meant far better preparation for college, at least for those in honors departments. And it is making some definite changes at the college level as well.

Basic requirements at many colleges and universities are being reexamined. Entering freshmen are able to write out of some courses such as Freshman English or a variation of Western Civilization. There no longer is as much need for the necessarily hasty and vague survey courses for students who have covered the material in high school programs. Advanced placement in college is open to many who have combined high school courses for college credit. Some able students, fresh out of high school, are able to gain sophomore standing through a combination of summer courses, independent study and the credit courses.

Yale University now has a program through which ambitious and capable students may earn both bachelor and master degrees at the same time. The time usually is four years although an advanced placement student may get through in three years. The program employs a combination of courses which are on a high enough level to be applied toward both degrees.

Critics warn that master degree standards may be lowered and that the undergraduate may not have the maturity at 20 to absorb the more difficult contents of graduate courses. But it has been demonstrated that some youngsters in grade and high school are well able to appreciate courses for which they do not need the social maturity to get a date or the physical maturity for athletic prowess.

If, as some critics warn, they rush through school without the advantages that come through athletic and social participation, they certainly gain in the academic. This is definitely an individual matter where no hard and fast rule can always apply.

Undoubtedly the same is true for higher fields of study. The program of combined degree study also helps to provide a solution for the increasing demand for the graduate with not only a bachelor's degree but a master's degree and a doctorate as well.

It may be that Americans are too much in a hurry for "instant education." Some fields need a considerable amount of time as well as application and brains. But all the educational experiments of the last decade have indicated that the variations in students are so great that only through a variety of programs can our educational institutions adequately serve the public demand.

Push Plans for City Garage

Progress often comes after painful and frustrating delays, and the proposed construction of a new Appleton municipal garage is presented here as exhibit No. 1.

For years there has been talk of replacing the outmoded garage on Spencer street and erecting a new facility near the city's industrial park. Finally, the Common Council has given the project the go-ahead.

However, some municipal department heads apparently have been reluctant to cooperate and spell out their space needs for the new garage which is about to enter the drawing board stage. The time has come for them to be exposed to the power of persuasion.

A few "planted" rumbles that a city garage is not necessary, and the old building should be remodeled represent the work of negative thinkers.

The Common Council is definitely on the right track in planning space allocations for the new building, and having hired an architectural firm to prepare the plans and specifications.

Let's make it "full steam ahead" and get that new municipal garage built in 1964.

The Irish Language

British commentators are having their own special kind of fun in what they hold is the unfortunate timing by the Irish government of its report favoring the restoration of the Irish language. In a land where, as the Manchester Guardian puts it, one must go to the very ends of the country to hear a word of Irish spoken in the street or in the home, the government now proposes a series of enactments designed to encourage the restoration of the ancient tongue. One of them would base promotions in the government service on the mastery of Irish language by the candidates.

There is also a proposal that parents be required to insist that their children learn to speak the language, even if the adults are unable to do so, that the police who speak Irish be given special badges, and more than two hundred other recommendations.

The Guardian observes that fewer Irish in Ireland speak the Irish language today than 60 years ago, in spite of the pretensions of the nationality conscious politicians.

"The truth is that the English never really conquered Ireland, but the English language did. There is no great shame in that; it has done pretty well in other parts of the world, including America," that journal noted.

We find ourselves, with a deferential nod toward the Irish cultural heritage in the United States, inclined to second the sardonic view attributed to an Irishman during the current discussions about language restoration in his country.

"If you want the Irish to be universally spoken," said he, "you'd have to ban it first."

Puff, Puff

Although sales of cigarettes have declined, it is generally assumed that hardened smokers will begin to drift back as the weeks go by and the effect of the cancer report becomes a dim memory. But just in case, some tobacco companies are experimenting with making other forms of smoking attractive to women.

Next month a "woman-tailored" cigar will go on the market, reportedly more suited to small hands. There also is a publication to help women learn how to smoke cigars without inhaling. They should get the habit with the big, old cigars since they provide so much smoke that inhaling is difficult, the experts say.

There have been a number of newspaper pictures of women trying out pipes. But somehow we doubt that many will stay with the briars or corn cobs. In general, the female of the species is more chatty and pipes just take too much puffing to get them lit and keep them that way.

Looking Backward

Pennsylvania's $ $ Patriotism

100 YEARS AGO
Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for Jan. 30, 1864.

Representative Stevens, a fossil Administrationist, has introduced a bill in Congress to pay Pennsylvania $700,000 "for expenses incurred in repelling invasion." Even the Chicago Tribune, a sheet whose penchant for falsehood is chronic and its appetite for public corruption, venality and robbery long known to be second nature, has a tinge of shame brought to its brazen cheek by the cool effrontery of this last attempted steal, the after piece to Lee's unopposed invasion to Gettysburg.

The Chicago print says: "Pennsylvania did as little to repel the invaders as if Lee and his graybacks were marching into Illinois. In all that distance from the Potomac to the Susquehanna, not a hostile shot was fired by a citizen of that State."

"At Gettysburg, but one man, brave John Burns, took his gun in aid in driving back the rebels. True, Philadelphia, Harrisburgh and other places commenced to entrench themselves and talked pretty valiantly of hospitable graves while New York gravawere flying up front to do the fighting.

Fears Invasion By Four Beetles

One can't help remembering the destructive qualities of the Japanese beetle. The millions of dollars spent to eradicate it. Now a new invasion. This time from Britain four beetles promise to cost us millions and infect teen-agers with a virus called Beatelemania. What is Beatelemania? Alas it can not be defined, only diagnosed. Congressional Leaders Demand Firm Policy on Panama Canal

BY ROBERT S. ALLEN AND PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — President Johnson is on blunt notice that he faces a bruising bipartisan fight in Congress of crucial concessions are made to Panama on continued U. S. control and operation of the canal.

This blunt warning was conveyed at the meeting of 18 Democratic and Republican congressional leaders hurriedly convened by the President last week. Also present were Undersecretary of State George Ball, Assistant Secretary Thomas Mann, and Ellsworth Bunker, delegate to the Organization of American States.

Want Firm Stand

The emphatic insistence that the U. S. stand firm against Panamanian demands was voiced chiefly by Senate Republican Leader Everett Dirksen, Ill.: Sen. Bourke Hickenlooper, Iowa, senior republican on the Senate Foreign Relations Committee; Sen. Richard Russell, D-Ga., chairman of the Armed Services Committee, and Representative Armistead Selden, Jr., D-Ala., chairman of the House Foreign Affairs Subcommittee on Latin America.

Sensors Dirksen and Hickenlooper threw down the gauntlet after hearing Ambassador Bunker's account of his tortuous efforts to reach an understanding with Miguel Moreno, top Panamanian representative.

Challenge 'Recasting'

Bunker disclosed that under one proposal tentatively agreed on, the U. S., in effect, would have been committed to negotiate extensive revision of the canal treaty. The draft did not actually say that, but that would have been the practical effect. It was defended on the ground "some recasting of the treaty is unavoidable."

This was vigorously challenged by Dirksen and Hickenlooper.

"I am flatly opposed to anything that in any way affects our continued full control and operation of the Panama Canal," asserted Dirksen. "I want to make that very clear. I won't stand for that and will fight it to the end. The American people are fed up with constantly giving ground to foreign elements who have no basis for complaints except goli and greed.

No More Cubas

"There are absolutely no bases for making any concessions regarding the canal to Panama. We know they cannot operate that waterway, and if it were turned over to them, it would be in the hands of the Communists in a short time. We have one Cuba 90 miles off our shores, and we don't want another at the strategically vital Panama Canal."

This ringing pronouncement was echoed with equal force by Hickenlooper.

"To me, that proposal savors strongly of appeasement," said the Iowan. "I am against it and, like Sen. Dirksen, will do everything I can to fight it if anything comes of it. The thing for us to do is be fair and reasonable in dealing with Panama, but to stand on our legal rights and not give an inch on extremist and politically inspired demands."

This charged atmosphere was further electrified by Sen. Russell's vigorously seconding the two Republican leaders.

Must Draw Line

"The time has come to draw the line," said the powerful Georgian. "I don't know of a better time to do it than on this issue. We have a treaty and we have leaned over backwards to be fair and square. We are willing to consider legitimate grievances and problems. But no further. Any attempt to do more than that is certain of congressional rejection."

Representative Selden heartily supported these views. He asserted that a majority of his committee is against reopening the Panama treaty in a way that might lead to transfer of the Canal to Panama. "This country won't stand for that," warned Selden. "any move in that direction will cause a tremendous explosion."

President Johnson listened intently to these forthright pronouncements, but made no comment. Secretaries Ball and Mann told the congressional leaders that failure to come to terms with Panama would throw the controversy into the OAS where the U. S. would be at a disadvantage politically.

The President finally ended the discussion, but gave no hint of what he may do. (All Rights Reserved)

Milwaukee's Traffic Ticket Fixing Should Be Lesson to Others

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — The state is watching with fascination as an incredible story of wholesale traffic ticket fixing is unfolding in the Milwaukee Police Department which has been hailed for a couple of generations as one of the model constabularies in the land.

Thousands of tickets were side-tracked through a variety of reasons, mostly through the intervention of aldermen, other city officials and assorted politicians and men about city hall — including in a few cases, newspapermen.

The idea of an occasional ticket cancellation is not especially serious. It may be supposed that the city hall in which there is an occasional summons overlooked is scarce, indeed, even in this state where public office performance standards are reasonably good. It is the volume in Milwaukee that is awe-inspiring. One politician has said, after contemplating public reactions to these disclosures, that there ought to be some standards agreed upon for the political handling of traffic violation tickets of constituents. Ten pounds per annum per alderman, perhaps?

IMPLICATIONS

It is easy to become sanctimonious and even hypocritical about these events. It is evident that there was a pattern of ticket cancellation in Milwaukee that was so common and so widely known that it was not regarded as a serious matter or as an indication of demoralization of law enforcement. Nor will anyone believe that the foundations of community morality in the state's principal city are being seriously under-mined. The disclosures, for one thing, are an assurance of tighter administration in the future.

Yet the mind boggles at the thought that these practices could conceivably develop elsewhere, in the state government police arms, for example.

Wyngaard

There are hundreds of state officials routinely enforcing state statutes and administrative laws with the kind of penalties prescribed in Milwaukee for the transgression of the traffic code. What if there developed the habit of state senatorial intervention for the fixing of those penalty assessments? It may be that there is in fact such an occasional attempt. The legislative chore today is far more diversified than the textbooks ever hint. But if there is, the fact is kept well covered.

The state department of taxation is a good example. It has wide discretion in the assessment of penalties, as in non-compliance or late filing cases. The conservation department issues hundreds of arrest notices for hunting and fishing and other violations. The motor vehicle department has a police traffic patrol. Agriculture, health, insurance and other investigators are constantly on patrol throughout Wisconsin.

One Milwaukee official has been charged with favoring his friends by neglecting to dispatch to Madison the record of their driving point forfeitures in driving violation cases, which has the effect of negating what is one of the most effective laws for the deterring of dangerous driving. What if this should give some of the clerks in the driver license filing section an idea?

THE LESSON

The cancellation of a traffic ticket is the kind of thing that appeals to many persons. As in so many instances, the public is as much involved in the Milwaukee trouble as anyone. I remember the time when I called on the late John Riedl, one of this state's finest newspapermen, as managing editor of the Appleton Post-Crescent. I had over-parked in his city and handed him the ticket with the cub-like casualness I thought suited the trivial matter. He took me to his office window and pointed in the direction of the police station. "That's where you pay," he said, curtly. The lesson was remembered.

Why Some Teachers Can't Control Classes

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Discussing a common school problem, a parent recently asked me: "How is it that some teachers are able to control their classes with a very light rein, and have no disciplinary troubles, while others must shout and plead and threaten and still get nowhere with the trouble makers?"

I don't think the answer has much to do with, teaching techniques or even experience, beyond a certain degree. I think it has almost everything to do with the "authenticity" of the teacher.

Must Be 'Authentic'
Notice I do not say "authority," but "authenticity." For genuine authority, which is more than a matter of official position and the ability to reward or punish, comes out of the depths of the personality. It has a realness, a presence, an aura, that can impress and influence even a six-year-old.

A person is either himself or not himself; is either rooted in his existence, or is a fabrication; has either found his humanhood or is still playing with masks and roles and status symbols. And nobody is more aware of this difference (although unconsciously) than a child. Only an authentic person can evoke a good response in the core of the other person.

son: only person is resonant to person.

Knowledge is not enough. Technique is not enough. Mere experience is not enough. This is the mystery at the heart of the teaching process; and the same mystery is at the heart of the healing process. Both are an art, more than a science or a skill — and the art is at bottom the ability to "tune in to the other's wave length."

Must Lose Artificial

And this ability is not possessed by those who have failed to come to terms with their own individuated person, no matter what other talents they possess. Until they have liberated themselves (not completely, but mostly) from what is artificial and unauthentic within themselves, they cannot communicate, counsel or control others.

The few teachers who meant the most to me in my school life were not necessarily those who knew the most, but those who gave out of the fullness of themselves; who confronted me face to face, as it were, with a humanhood that awoke and lured my own small and trembling soul and called me to take hold of my own existence with my two hands.

Such persons, of course, are extremely rare, and they are worth more than we can ever pay them. It should be the prime task of a good society to recruit and develop these personalities for safeguarding our children's futures; and our failure to do so is our most monstrous sin of omission. As a result, nearly half the population of the United States is to be found in the under-25 age groups at the present time.

In Outagamie County, the figures show, the median age of the population is 24.8. There are as many local people under that age as there are over it.

France Won't Send Cyprus Peace Force

Minister Asserts Nation Not Bound By Zurich Statute

PARIS (AP)—France refused today to join an international peace-keeping force on Cyprus as proposed by Britain.

The French Cabinet spokesman announced this following a Cabinet session with President De Gaulle.

Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville reported on developments on the eastern Mediterranean island, and on the British proposal for a North Atlantic Alliance force of about 10,000 men to maintain peace between Cyprus' Greek and Turkish populations.

Information Minister Alain Peyrefitte, the Cabinet spokesman, said the legal basis for a peace-keeping force would be the 1959 Statute of Zurich concerning Cyprus.

Peyrefitte was referring to the conference at Zurich in 1959 between the Greek and Turkish premiers which ended fighting between the two Cypriot communities.

The minister said France had not participated in drafting the Zurich agreement, and hence did not feel herself involved.

and to give a tax break to parents putting children through college.

There seemed to be a good chance the $11.6-billion tax-cut bill would be passed by Thursday night, well ahead of the time expected earlier.

Sen. Thurston B. Morton, R-Ky., planned to offer the amendment to repeal the excise tax in the absence of Republican leader Everett M. Dirksen, Ill., who is hospitalized.

Excise Tax Assailed

Republicans contend the levies, mostly dating from World War II, are nuisances and should be cut out. The estimated gross revenue from wiping out the excises in the four categories is $450 million a year.

Administration supporters contend that the subject of excises should not be brought in on the pending bill.

Democratic senators supplied 47 votes Tuesday night to defeat a Morton amendment which would have stripped from the bill the repeal of the 4 per cent credit allowed on stock dividend income.

All of the 31 Republicans present plus 13 Democrats supported the proposal. It would have eliminated from the bill its biggest revenue-producing section.

Repeal of the dividend credit would yield an estimated $300 million a year for the Treasury.

The defeat of the amendment indicated that the repealer, put into the bill in the House, would

Gregory Schulte Resigns From Appleton Board of Education

Gregory Schulte, 924 E. Atlantic St., has resigned from the Appleton Board of Education, effective March 1.

Schulte, a school commissioner for the past eight months, recently was transferred to the main office of Allis Chalmers Manufacturing Co., Milwaukee. In a letter to Mayor Clarence Mitchell, Schulte said he plans to move to Milwaukee next month.

Schulte was elected to a three-year term in April, 1963, defeating Mrs. Helen Heil in her bid for re-election.

A native of Milwaukee, Schulte has been associated with Valley Iron Co., here since 1944, and was the first president of the Appleton Taxpayers Assn. Mitchell said he would not appoint anyone to fill Schulte's position until after the April 7 election. Mitchell said when there still would be a vacancy on the board.

Schulte recently said he would leave the city, at least two persons applied for the post.

Among Candidates
"Those who applied are the school board probably has been the most challenging and experience of my life," Schulte wrote. "I shall be equally grateful to those who served with me."
